Antlers May Be Closed On Aug. 31

Operations at the Antlers Hotel probably will be discontinued about Aug. 31, Benjamin Swig of San Francisco, owner, said in a letter Monday to Colorado Springs' City Council.

Swig said, "We have received a very large deposit for purchase of the Antlers Hotel property," and said that the only thing holding up completion of the transaction is the termination of one lease of a tenant.

"I do not know the name of the purchasers of the property but it is my understanding that the building is to be razed shortly thereafter," Swig said in his letter.

Swig said this morning when queried by the Gazette Telegraph that he had no further information than that contained in the letter to the city.

"The proposed sale contemplates that the property will be sold free of tenants or leases about Aug. 31 and hotel operations will be discontinued as of that date," Swig's letter, sent to Perry C. Tyree, city superintendent of inspections, said.

The city has sent several notices to officials of the hotel in recent weeks that certain changes were needed for safety precautions including fire escapes along the west side of the building and a revision of connecting interior hallways.

Tyree said the Colorado Springs Contractors' Board would review the situation when it meets April 23 and will probably issue a certificate of occupancy so the Antlers can operate for a reasonable length of time, after which there would have to be conformation with city codes. He said the same

Russia Would Like U. S. to Bail Her Out, Nationally Famous Professor Declares at Freedom School Session

Russia is facing a serious economic problem today and would like to have the United States bail her out, according to Prof. G. Warren Nutter.

Prof. Nutter is head of the economics department of the University of Virginia, and an expert on the Russian economy.

He is lecturing this week at the Freedom School as a participant in the phrontistery which opened in November and will continue through this month.

The professor said in an interview at the school Monday night that he believes Russia would like as much as a $10-billion loan from the United States to help it get past the current problem of a slowing down economy and a population that continues to grow, though it is growing more slowly now than in the past.

The Russians are realizing the limitations of their system and also facing the fact that they have to put something more into their agriculture instead of taking effort out of it, Nutter explained.

The Russians, for instance, have half of their people living in rural areas — more than 100 million people — and about 40 million working in agricultural production. That compares to about five million in agri-

Truman Wanted to Fire MacArthur Anyway, Ex-Speaker Martin Declares

By STANLEY MEISLER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. once made public a letter that ended the military career of a friend. The friend never mentioned the letter again, and neither did Martin, and the two remained close to the end.

The friend was General of the Army Douglas MacArthur, who died Sunday. In a reminiscent interview, Martin reviewed the events that swirled about the historic letter.

"I had wanted some ammunition to answer some of the Democratic arguments about the war in Korea," said Martin, "and so I wrote a letter to MacArthur asking for his views."

Martin, a Republican congressman from Massachusetts who was House minority leader then, received a reply from MacArthur. In the reply, MacArthur wrote Martin, "There is no substitute for victory," and he disagreed with President Harry S. Truman's decision to limit the war to Korea itself and to leave enemy bases in Communist China alone.

"I had asked him for his views, and his reply did not say that his views were confidential, but I was not sure what to do," Martin said. "I walked around the block several times before I finally made up my mind. I decided that if he did not want his views known he would have said so."

Martin, in the midst of a House debate on the Korean war in April 1951, released the letter.

Two days after the letter was made public, Truman dismissed MacArthur as the American

MacArthur's Body Kept On View at Famed Armory

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—A shriveled yet somehow majestic figure in simple sun tan uniform lay in a history-laden armory today, a magnet for Americans conscious of their heritage.

New Yorkers and visitors to the metropolis had an opportunity to view the body of General of the Army Douglas MacArthur and meditate on his 60 years of service to the republic.

From 10 a.m. until as far into the night as any mourners are in line, the 7th Regiment Armory, home of "the Silk Stocking Regiment," will remain open.

First there were to be religious services and a presidential tribute to the 84-year-old warrior who died Sunday in Washington after three major operations.

Clergymen expected to pray at the casket in the armory on Park Avenue at 67th Street were: Francis Cardinal Spellman, Roman Catholic archbishop of New York; the Rt. Rev. Horace W. B. Donegan, Episcopal bishop of New York; the Rev. Terence J. Finlay, rector of St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church here and minister to the MacArthur family, and Rabbi Max Schenk, president of the New York Board of Rabbis.

74,414 Political Prisoners Are Reported in Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—There are 74,414 political prisoners in Cuba, 3,351 Cubans have been killed by the Fidel Castro regime, and 276,469 Cubans have fled their country, an exile group claimed today.

The Revolutionary Student Directorate, an anti-Castro youth group with underground sources reported that 965,000 persons, or 14 per cent of Cuba's population, have been jailed since Castro seized power in 1959.

Public Invited To Freedom School Lecture

A special lecture on Russia, to be illustrated with colored slides, will be given Friday night at the Freedom School at eight o'clock and is open to the public and free of charge.

The lecture will be given by Prof. G. Warren Nutter, head of the economics department of the University of Virginia. He is lecturing this week at the school.

The Freedom School is about four miles north of Palmer Lake on the Perry Park road. The lecture will be held in the Rose Wilder Lane Hall, just west and above the school parking lot.

Prof. Nutter was the subject of a question and answer interview in the current issue (April 13) of U. S. News and World Report.

The topic discussed in the interview is the Soviet economy. Nutter's view is that Russia is in deep trouble economically and would like the United States to bail her out.

Belgian Hospitals Crowded; Doctors Continue Strike

By TOM OCHILTREE

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Belgium's hospitals were crowded to the bursting point today as the doctors strike rounded out its first week with no solution in sight.

Weary nurses struggled to keep up with the flood of patients. Beds were set up in the corridors. Some civilian patients were sent to military hospitals.

Only serious cases were admitted, brought in under emergency arrangements set up by the 10,000 striking doctors, who have been joined by 2,000 dentists.

The physicians, who are protesting new provisions in Belgium's national health scene, have arranged to treat pressing cases. But their opponents claim this is not meeting the needs of the country's 9 million people.

IBM Unveils New Generation Of Computing Equipment

A new generation of electronic computing equipment was introduced today by International Business Machines Corporation.

Some 400 southern Colorado business executives and military representatives were told by R. R. Johnson, IBM representative for southern Colorado, in the ballroom of the Broadmoor Hotel.

IBM Board Chairman Thomas J. Watson Jr. called the event the most important product announcement in the company's history.

The new equipment is known as the IBM System-360.

It combines microelectronic technology, which makes possible operating speeds measured in billionths of a second, with significant advances in the concepts of computer organization.

At a press conference at the company's Poughkeepsie facilities, Watson said:

"System-360 represents a sharp departure from concepts of the past in designing and building computers. It is the product of an international effort in IBM's laboratories and plants and is the first time IBM has redesigned the basic internal architecture of its computers in a decade.

"The result will be more computer productivity at lower cost than ever before. This is the beginning of a new generation — not only of computers—but of their application in business, science and government."

More than 100,000 businessmen in 165 American cities today attended meetings at which System-360 was announced.

System-360 is a single system spanning the performance range of virtually all current IBM computers — from the widely used 1401 to nearly twice that of the most powerful computer previously built by the company. It was developed to perform information handling jobs encompassing all types of applications.

System-360 includes in its central processors 19 combinations

Castro Loses $10 Million in Brazil Failure

RIO DE JANIERO (UPI) — The abrupt departure of Cuban Ambassador Raul Roa Jr., son of Fidel Castro's foreign minister, caused speculation today that an early break in relations between the Castro regime and Brazil's new anti-Communist government may be planned.

(Cuban refugee spokesman Modesto Vazquez said in Mexico City Monday night the Castro regime poured $10 million into Brazil on Roa's recommendation to try to buy military support for a Communist uprising planned for August.)

'Vicious Dog' Permitted to Attend Court

A man charged with having a vicious dog Monday asked Municipal Court Judge Allan Asher if the dog would be allowed in court for his hearing April 13.

"What kind of dog is it?" asked the wary judge.

It took several healthy whacks of the clerk's gavel to quiet the spectators laughter.

Bulldozer Crushes Minister To Death at Demonstration

CLEVELAND (UPI)—A White minister protesting school segregation was crushed to death today when he tried to stop a bulldozer at a school construction project.

The Rev. Bruce Klunder, adviser at the student Christian Union at Western Reserve University here, was part of a group of demonstrators protesting the construction of the elementary school on grounds it would continue de facto segregation.

Police said four demonstrators tried to stop the bulldozer, three of them throwing them-selves in front of the machine. The bulldozer began backing up and ran over the minister.

The crowd attacked the bulldozer driver. He was rescued by police.

Steel Giants Indicted for Price Fixing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eight giants of the steel industry were indicted today on charges of conspiring in secret hotel room meetings to fix prices in the multibillion-dollar steel sheet business.

A federal grand jury in New York City charged that the firms conspired to eliminate competition in the $3.6-billion industry, which accounts for a third of all finished steel mill production in the United States.

In doing so, the indictment charged the corporations and two of their officials violated the Sherman Antitrust Act ban against restraint of trade.

The indictment grew out of an earlier grand jury's investigation of the April 1962 attempt by leading steel companies to put into effect a $6-a-ton price increase on all steel products. Sharply rebuked by the Kennedy administration, the firms rescinded the price increase.

Today's indictment named these defendants:

Probe of School Bond Sale Syndicate Slated in State

By STEPHEN M. AUG

DENVER (AP)—A federal or state investigation may be held into a syndicate of Colorado financial houses that negotiated for the sale of school bonds without bidding competitively against each other.

A state investigation, Gov. John A. Love said late Monday, could result if it were shown that the bonding houses failed to save school districts as much money as possible in the sale of bonds.

A federal investigation, officials said, could result if it were shown that the effect of the group was to limit commerce.

Neither the governor nor federal officials would comment further on the matter.

The existence of the syndicate—or "account" — was disclosed officially Monday by Elbie L. Gann, assistant state commissioner of education in charge of administrative services.

Gann said the combination of firms existed—though he did not have written proof of this, or of

Two Turks Die In New Blast of Cyprus Violence

By HAL McCLURE

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Greek Cypriot police today condemned an attempt to murder four Turkish Cypriots, blamed on other Greek Cypriots. Two Turks were killed, one was wounded and the fourth missing.

A police spokesman denounced as "an abominable crime" the shooting Monday night, which threatened to touch off a new wave of fighting between the Greek and Turkish communities.

Dr. Fazil Kuchuk, Turkish Cypriot vice president of the island, charged that Greek Cypriots marched the four Turks into a field outside a Nicosia city gate, shot them with rifles and left them for dead.

Kuchuk, who based his accusation on the survivor's account, said he believed the shooting was in reprisal for the slaying of a Greek Cypriot auxiliary policeman in Nicosia Sunday.

Headquarters of the U.N. peacekeeping force said four Turkish islanders were shot and the incident was being investigated by the U.N. commander, Indian Gen. Prem Singh Gyani.

British U.N. troops found the two bodies shortly after the survivor, Husnu Hassan, crawled to a British radio station and yelled for help.

Hassan, shot three times, told Turkish officials he and the others were seized by Greeks when they tried to drive a van into Nicosia through Famagusta gate.

He said the Greeks beat them with rifle butts and screamed, "You're going to die, Turkish dogs!" He said his captors laughed as they opened fire.

Walter Risdon, an international union vice president, said money was not an issue but that the union feels "a lot of our prerogatives are slipping away."

He claimed that "some of our people have been made to work 10 consecutive days at straight time rates." The regular hourly rate for photoengravers, who make the metal plates used to reproduce photographs in a newspaper, is $3.86.

Lisle Baker, executive vice president of the two newspapers, said they "made a new offer in which we increased our wage offer and made other con-

Russian Troops Leaving Cuba, Reports Indicate

By BEN F. MEYER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Informed sources said today the Soviet Union has been pulling its troops out of Cuba in considerable numbers.

U.S. officials confirmed this, but as usual declined to estimate how many Soviet military men still are in Cuba.

At the time of the Cuban missile crisis in October 1962 it was estimated that 22,000 Soviet troops, many of them in organized combat units, were in Cuba. A number of them were technical experts in Cuba. A number of them were technical experts in the long-range weapons and other war gear Moscow has poured into Cuba to make it the most powerful military nation in Latin America.

Last October U.S. officials indicated that a report that the Soviet troop presence had dropped to less than 7,600 was a pretty fair guess. Presumably the current figure is somewhere around 4,000.

The most recent formal statement by a U.S. government agency on the Soviet troop situation in Cuba came in a nine-word observation all but buried in a State Department report to the House Foreign Affairs Committee. It said, "Most Soviet troops have been withdrawn from the island."

McGeorge Bundy, special assistant to President Johnson on international security affairs, said in an interview on a radio and television show, ABC's "Issues and Answers," last Sunday that "there are very many fewer" Russian soldiers in Cuba now.

Record Breaking Construction Pace Continues

In that short period, building permits totaling $714,000 were issued to area contractors to add to the more than $8 million already issued this year.

Permits have averaged close to $2 million a month since the start of 1964 but if the pace continues, April should take the average higher.

Snowfall Continues On Watershed

At least 10 inches of snow containing .50 of an inch of moisture fell on the city watershed at Ruxton Park Monday night and it was still snowing this morning.

City officials said that about five inches of snow was dumped on the North Slope of Pikes Peak in Monday's storm with light snow continuing today.

There has been about 50 inches of snow on the North Slope of Pikes Peak since Feb. 1. Light snow fell on the Northfield watershed.

LBJ Speeded With Beer at 90 MPH, Report Charges

NEW YORK (AP) — Time magazine says President Johnson—with a paper cup of beer "within easy sipping distance" —gunned his cream-colored Lincoln Continental up a long Texas hill and the driver of an oncoming car veered off the road.

One passenger groaned, "That's the closest John McCormack has come to the White House yet," the magazine said.

Newsweek Magazine carried a similar account of Johnson's driving over Easter weekend, when he gave newsmen and newswomen an impromptu tour of his ranch.

Asked about newspaper reports that he drove up to 90 miles an hour, Johnson told a news conference last week he was unaware he had ever exceeded Texas' speed limit of 70.

Time says Johnson took three newswomen and a male reporter in his Lincoln, while other reporters and photographers followed in five other Johnson-owned vehicles.

"The whole caravan jounced at high speeds across a pasture, zig - zagging around dung mounds and clusters of fat white-faced cattle," Time said.

Johnson blew the cow - like horn on his car at the cattle, and Time said one newswoman recalled he once gave "a very graphic description of the sex life of a bull."

Spotting a sow with a half dozen pigs, Time said, the President offered to pose for a photo with a pig if reporters could catch one—and "guffawed exuberantly" as the sow charged the frightened photographers, as he knew it would.

Johnson finished his own cup of beer, Time said, refilled once from a newswoman's cup and sped off at 90 miles per hour for more.

Newsweek said that after the hill - passing incident, Johnson pulled up at a ranch house and asked "is the Secret Service still with us?" The magazine said the car with the security men in it had been left behind on the highway "caught behind cars Mr. Johnson had passed on the way."

Huntsville Suspends Three Negro Cops

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Three Negroes, the first and only members of their race to become Huntsville policemen, have been suspended.

Police Chief Floyd Dyar said he suspended the men Monday when they refused to leave his office after discussing complaints about working conditions. He said he had told the men that the grievances would be referred to the City Council police committee.

A two-thirds vote of the five council members is required to uphold the suspension.

Ousted Leaders Of Nations Live in Luxury

By FRED GOLDEN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—When Brazil's ousted President Joao Goulart flew to neighboring Uruguay he joined one of the world's most unusual clubs. It elects no officers and never meets. Although fashionably exclusive, most of its members would rather not belong.

It is made up of national leaders tumbled unwillingly from power and cast into exile. The roster includes kings, presidents, prime ministers and even an emperor.

What do these men do after the acclaim dies down? Do they dream of the day when their nations will recall them?

Juan Domingo Peron still cherishes the dream, even though he has been a political refugee since Argentina turned its back on his dictatorship nine years ago.

A resident of Spain, Peron, 68, but I will never give up hope of returning some day to Argentina."

Peron remains undisturbed by Argentina's recent effort to extradite him on criminal charges, confident that Spain will reject the request.

Of the country he once dominated, Peron says: "Much of the trouble in Argentina today is due to infiltration of Castroism and communism. Let the workers get what they deserve and the difficulties will disappear."

The man driven out of Cuba by Fidel Castro lives in neighboring Portugal in exclusive Estoril, home of many royal and political exiles. Cuba's ex-president Fulgencio Batista, 61, disdains social activities of the posh European playground, but has become a great tourist. He emerges often from his guarded villa for car trips to Spain. At home he writes profusely to justify his much-criticized regime but refrains from public pronouncements, on orders from the Portuguese government.

Privately, he is sharply critical of U.S. handling of the Cuban problem, insisting Castro should have been seen earlier as a Communist. Will he return to Cuba?

"Some day perhaps," he has told friends.

Italy's former King Umberto lives in almost regal splendor in a great mansion in Cascais, another Lisbon suburb. His "Villa Italia" is set in a pine grove and has a fine library in which Umberto reads history. His wealth enables him to maintain a large household, including his personal physician, Count Aldo Castellano, who runs a clinic with the monarch's support for Cascais' poor fishermen.

Umberto's friends describe him as a lonely man. His wife, former Princess Marie Jose, lives in Switzerland, and his son and three daughters are rarely with him.

Egypt's ex-King Farouk seeks solace in exile by drifting among the resorts of France, Italy and Switzerland, but diminished funds and perhaps boredom have curtailed his free-spending habits.

Still fat and now 44, the monarch of the Nile has sunk into almost complete obscurity 12 years after his flight. He long ago disappeared from Rome's "La Dolce Vita" cafes, which he used to frequent with his burly Albanian guards. He has sold his last yacht and has become a smaller bettor in the Riviera gambling casino.

Farouk drifts almost unnoticed from an apartment in Rome to an apartment in Naples, hometown of aspiring opera singer Irma Capece Minutolo, his companion for the past decade. He also visits his son, Ahmed Faud, 12, at a Swiss boarding school.

Maj. Gen. Mohamed Naguib, who became a victim of the Egyptian revolution he helped create, was once sentenced to death by his old associates but has been allowed to live in "permanent isolation" under guard at a suburban Cairo villa.

With speckled gray hair and a kindly smile, Naguib, 63, is still regarded with nostalgic affection by many Egyptians. He was their first president after Farouk was driven out of Egypt. Naguib's friends say he suffers from rheumatism but is otherwise healthy, meets with his family, and reads a great deal. He is allowed to visit a mosque.

Romania's former King Mihail has achieved success in another area since the Communists forced him to abdicate in 1947. At 42, Mihail is regarded as a highly competent automobile, aviation and electronics engineer and is frequently called in as a consultant. He lives in a villa outside Geneva with Princess Anne and their four daughters.

By title, Bao Dai, Viet Nam's former emperor, must be considered the ranking member of the exiles' club. Once noted for his playboy ways, Bao Dai now lives quietly in France, avoids the public eye and refuses to make any statements about the war in his homeland. He seems to have plenty of money.

Zanzibar's deposed sultan, Sir Abdulla Bin Khalifa, is a recent royal figure thrust into exile. On a weekly British dole of $672, the sultan, his wife, mother-in-law, brother and brother-in-law, five children and 20 followers, live in a small private hotel in the British coastal town of Southsea, near Portsmouth.

Burma's ousted prime minister, U Nu, lives under arrest in a military rest camp 25 miles from Rangoon at the order of Gen. Ne Win, who deposed him in 1962. He is 54 and a deeply religious Buddhist.

Thailand's former premier, Pibul Songgram, has lived in Japan since his ouster in a military coup in 1957, but hopes to return home.

"Naturally, we must go back one day," he says. "I will go when the situation in Thailand has so readjusted as to welcome me."

Syngman Rhee, once one of the strongest of Asian leaders, is too ill to carry out his wish to return to South Korea. He has been in a self-imposed exile in Hawaii since he was toppled from the presidency in 1960. He is 89.

Goldwater Keeps Light Schedule In Oregon Drive

By GORDON G. MACNAB

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Republican presidential hopeful Barry Goldwater stayed close to Oregon's center of population today with a light campaign schedule.

He said he needed more exposure to the people for the May 15 Oregon primary election, and he got some of that Monday night in a statewide television network appearance.

His Oregon field director, Stephen Shadegg, said he was delighted with the reception the Arizona senator got then and in a series of gatherings. But Goldwater said, "It's going to be a rough go."

There was little doubt he had absentee candidate Henry Cabot Lodge on his mind. The Lodge campaign is clever, he said, "but I really don't think Lodge is a candidate." Lodge is on the ballot, though, along with Goldwater, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Pennvylvania Gov. William W. Scranton and Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine.

Lodge's supporters are running a mail campaign for their man and are hoping to repeat his New Hampshire primary victory. Rockefeller has been campaigning actively. The others have not.

Goldwater stayed around Portland Monday but moved out a bit into the populous Willamette Valley today for a talk to students and faculty of Oregon University at Corvallis.

He was to wind up his two-day tour with a talk at nearby Salem, the state capital, to a convention of the American Plywood Association.

He will be back April 24, again May 4 and 5 and finally on May 14, election eve, an aide said. He is after Oregon's 18 delegates to the national convention—a small plum—and the important prestige of a victory over all other Republican candidates shortly before the California June 2 primary where 86 delegates are the prize.

Goldwater devoted his talk Monday night to foreign affairs, calling for unremitting attacks on communism and for building up the military power of this country.

His only son died childless and therefore Napoleon Bonaparte had only one lineal descendant.

By EUGENE LEVIN

ROME (AP)—The big Italian Communist party has come out against Soviet Premier Khrushchev's call for a showdown meeting on the Soviet-Chinese struggle, warning that it might cause a formal split in the international Red movement.

The Italian Communists made plain, however, that they are against Peking and might change their position depending on developments.

The statement, published in the Communist organ L'Unita, noted that the party had opposed a world showdown meeting all along and had suggested that individual Communist parties should thresh out differences in bilateral talks.

The renewed opposition from the largest Communist party in the West underscored reports from Budapest that Khrushchev is receiving lukewarm support from some allies in his battle with the Red Chinese.

Khrushchev had predicted that his call last week for a showdown session would rally all Communists. So far only the Hungarian and Bulgarian parties have pledged him all-out support.

Many fence-sitting Communist parties outside the Soviet orbit are apprehensive over the prospect of an open break between the two Communist giants. They hesitate to throw in their lot with the Kremlin at this uncerain stage.

Khrushchev launched a new attack on the Red Chinese Sunday, accusing them of trying to incite the Soviet people against him.

"For this purpose," he told a crowd of about 80,000 in the Hungarian steel city of Miskolc, "they invented accusations against me.

"But I am not ashamed of these charges. I am proud of them. They bring me only pride and honor."

The Chinese accused Khrushchev last week of being "the greatest capitulationist of all time," a tool of the United States and too concerned with raising Soviet living standards.

Khrushchev retorted that after the deprivations of Stalin's time, he was helping the Soviet people "to begin to live like human beings."

"If our people begin to be better dressed, to have better shoes to be better fed, to have better houses, to increase their incomes toward satisfaction of their needs and cultural requirements, that is, to begin to live like human beings, that is the rebirth," he said.

"I am proud of the work which our party and people are doing for civilization and against Stalin's distortations."

Taunting Peking he said: "Whoever loves Stalin can take him, if they like the stench of corpses.

"I have suffered from the personality cult and probably most of the Soviet party and people, the Hungarian party and your people have suffered.

"There is a tradition among people to carry a corpse out feet first, so it won't return. We carried Stalin out this way, and nobody will ever bring him back to us."

In World War II, when President Franklin Roosevelt ordered temporary buildings erected, he reportedly told the builder, "I want you to design these so they will fall down after seven years. I don't want this war to make Washington any uglier."

FOODS AND MEDICINE

A 64-year-old Abington, Pa. man was under treatment for high blood pressure with a new but highly acceptable remedy. He ate a cheese sandwich for lunch and developed indigestion 10 minutes later. Pain beneath the breastbone became so severe he feared a heart attack and was taken to the receiving ward of the Abington Memorial hospital.

Distress subsided within 20 minutes. On admission, his blood pressure was over 200 and his physicians were puzzled because the medicine had successfully kept the reading below 140 over a 2-year period.

What made the blood pressure rise so abruptly? Various possiblities were considered but a reaction to cheese was the most likely explanation. Similar reactions to the combination of cheese and antihypertensive agents have been reported. Fermented cheese contains a specific substance that is capable of nullifying the action of this medication. The blood pressure dropped to normal two hours after hospitalization. It is doubtful whether this man will eat cheese again while taking the hypotensive agent.

Foods are chemicals and there is no reason why they cannot aggravate or neutralize the action of a drug that is taken simultaneously. Spinach, and other leafy vegetables, for example, are rich in vitamin K.

This is of no consequence unless the consumer also is taking an anticoagulant to slow the blood clotting time after a heart attack. Large amounts of vitamin K will destroy the effectiveness of the anticoagulant. Aspirin does the same.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

Casting Off Guilt

Mrs. H. writes: I went to a psychiatrist, who said I project my feelings. This didn't help me any. Do you know anything about this condition?

Reply

Projection is a compensatory means of defense in which intolerable feelings of guilt or inadequacy are projected onto others. This type of bizarre thinking makes the person feel better about his own faults. The situation can be likened to blaming the hammer after hitting the thumb.

Trembling Hand

R. S. writes: My right hand shakes so I can hardly write. This is making me so nervous I don't go anywhere for fear I will have to sign my name. My doctor prescribed a sedative and a tranquilizer but they did no good. Do you think shots of vitamin B would help the nerves so that shaking would stop?

Reply

Possibly, but why not ask your physician when you see him again?

Finger Biter

B. T. writes: My boy friend bites his thumb and fingers so that the skin looks awful. He won't see a doctor. Is there any way I can help him cure this bad habit?

Reply

Not if emotional immaturity is responsible for his behavior. Unless he grows up, look for a new boy friend or you will have to contend with this kind of thing the rest of your married life.

No Vaccine

J. D. writes: Can shots be taken to prevent meningitis?

Reply

Meningitis means inflammation of the meninges, the membranes surrounding the brain and spinal cord. A variety of micro-organisms can cause the disease. Vaccines are available for some of these, such as polio and measles.

Fate Can Play Strange Tricks, Director Says

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Fate plays strange tricks. Ask director Tony Mann.

When Mann was 15 years old in New York City, he wanted to go on the stage.

He wrangled an interview with an assistant to the late producer Daniel Frohman.

The assistant advised Mann to forget acting, that he was not the type and he should stay in school.

A year ago in Madrid, Mann's secretary announced that an old actor in the outer office wished a moment of the famed director's time. Mann was making "The Fall of the Roman Empire."

"As soon as I heard the man's name," Mann recalls, "I knew it was the same fellow who steered me away from acting."

"Mr. Mann," the assistant producer now turned actor said, "I'm an American living alone in Madrid. I need a job desperately—any part in your picture."

Mann, without revealing the long-ago meeting, told the actor he had a part and took his phone number and address.

On the third day of shooting, the actor failed to appear for his role. Mann sent an assistant director to the actor's apartment.

Today In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

CUBA: Diplomatic sources say they doubt the Organization of American States will act soon on Venezuela's request for authorization for any hemisphere nation to use military force against Cuba if it commits new acts of aggression.

Sources said Venezuela made the request in a draft resolution circulated confidentially in Caracas among representatives of member nations of the OAS. The resolution proposed that a meeting of OAS foreign ministers be called to consider the poposal.

Diplomatic informants here said Monday there are so many political and other internal problems plaguing Latin America that it seems unlikely a foreign ministers meeting will be held now to deal with Cuba.

OCEAN LIVING: Four Navy divers—a doctor and three seamen—are scheduled to spend three weeks this summer living and working under the sea.

Their home will be a 40-foot laboratory 192 feet below the ocean waves near the Navy's oceanographic research tower, the Argos Island, 30 miles southwest of Bermuda.

The experiment, Navy officers explained Monday, will be similar to some carried out by French divers: putting men to work for long periods deep in the ocean.

The Navy officers calculated that the four men—still to be selected—will be able to do four to six hours of work a day on the ocean bottom for three weeks.

The divers will leave the submarine-laboratory to perform a number of tasks.

HEALTH CARE: The fate this year of President Johnson's health care plan may be decided in discussions, possibly beginning this week, by the House Ways and Means Committee.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said Monday the issue of health care for the aged is next on the committee's agenda.

Mills and other opponents of the administration plan — hospital and similar benefits for those over 65 to be paid by an extension of Social Security taxes—insist there are not enough votes in the committee to send the measure to the House for action.

Some of the speculation about a compromise that might be worked out has centered on the possibility of a separate pay roll tax, divorcing the plan from Social Security.

Nyasaland Returns Premier to Office

MADRID (AP)—The Spanish government wiped out the criminal records today of thousands convicted of rebellion against the Franco regime before Oct. 1, 1945.

The amnesty marking the 25th anniversary of Generalissimo Franco's victory in the civil war also reduced the sentences of all prisoners by one sixth.

BLANTYRE, Nyasaland (AP)—Dr. Hastings K. Banda, first prime minister of this British protectorate due for independence on July 6, has been returned to office for another five years.

The 50 candidates of Banda's Malawa Congress party were nominated without opposition Monday, thereby canceling a general election set for April 28.

New Ambassador For Panama Is Being Prepared

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's nomination of Jack Hood Vaughn as ambassador to Panama is expected to reach the Senate by midweek, and the onetime boxer is "rarin' to go."

Johnson told a news conference Saturday that Vaughn, now director of the Peace Corps' Latin-American operation, will be on his way to Panama "just as soon as he can be confirmed by the Senate."

No difficulty is anticipated, and Vaughn, who has been holding his breath for three months, then will head for his "second home."

Vaughn, 43, who boxed both as an amateur and as a professional, was ticketed for the Panama assignment last January when it appeared the United States and Panama might be able to maintain diplomatic ties although bloody rioting had broken out in the Canal Zone.

But the two countries broke relations, and they were not resumed until Saturday.

Since January, Vaughn said in an interview, "I've been sort of on the hook, waiting in the wings." He said that of all foreign countries Panama would be his first choice for assignment.

"I have a special fondness for Panamanians," he said.

At his news conference Johnson praised Vaughn as a man who kows personally about as many Panamanians as any U.S. citizen does.

This familiarity stems from his 1954-6 assignment in the country to aid in economic development via pilot projects in low cost housing, water resources surveys and the like.

The post of ambassador has been vacant since President John F. Kennedy accepted the resignation of Joseph S. Farland in August. Farland reportedly disagreed with the late President's policies.

Just before his death Kennedy had announced he intended to nominate Frank Coffin, a foreign aid official, as ambassador but President Johnson did not follow through.

Sunday in the NBC radio-television interview "Meet the Press," Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower called the vacancy "a serious mistake" and said the January outbreak might have been avoided had Washington been kept "fully informed of the developments that were building up."

The criticism was directed at Kennedy, although Eisenhower did not mention his name. He specifically exempted Johnson, however, by saying the "serious mistake" was "not made by Mr. Johnson."

Eisenhower served his brother, President Dwight D. Eisenhower, as a special ambassador and special representative on Latin-American affairs. He heads the Republican Citizens Committee's Critical Issues Council, which soon will issue a report on Panama.

Johnson stressed at his news conference that the United States is much concerned with the "serious problems" of the hemisphere. He said Washington is doing everything it can to deal with the "ancient enemies of mankind—disease and illiteracy."

His attitude was one of obvious satisfaction. "This has been a good week for this hemisphere," he declared.

The President referred specifically to Panama and Brazil. In the first instance, he said "we are encouraged by the developments." In the second, the overthrow of leftist President Joao Goulart of Brazil, Johnson said "we are glad that the transition in Brazil has been constitutional."

An exchange of notes Saturday between the State Department and Panama's Foreign Ministry official resumed relations. It was reported in Panama City that U.S. Embassy personnel are expected to return to their headquarters this week, having been told by Panamanian officials that they are welcome at any time.

Sunday night, Panama President Roberto Chiari named Dr. Jorge Illuea, a former ambassador to the United Nations, special envoy for conducting negotiations with the United States over the Canal Zone dispute.

Johnson has selected Robert B. Anderson, a former secretary of the Treasury, to serve in the U.S. post.

Japan Looked On MacArthur As 'Proconsul'

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP)—In wartime he was a feared but unknown enemy. But the Japanese today remember Gen. Douglas MacArthur chiefly for his postwar years as the American proconsul whose decisions remolded their lives.

As supreme commander of Allied powers, representing 13 victor nations including the Soviet Union, MacArthur ruled more people and exerted more influence on them than did any of ancient Rome's governors or proconsuls.

As proconsul—a term he himself used to describe his occupation role—the general maintained his distance from the Japanese people and put on the trappings and solemn show they had learned to expect over the centuries from their showguns, the awesome military rulers.

He established his supremacy early in 1945, when Emperor Hirohito left his moated palace to pay a personal call on Allied headquarters. The Japanese, who had been taught to regard Hirohito as akin to a god, never forgot this gesture.

Hungry, their cities in ruins, their industries stumbling along at 20 per cent efficiency, the Japanese were a dispirited people. MacArthur undertook to instill in them "the two great concepts of human history—the Christian idea of the dignity of the individual and the Democratic principles of human freedom."

He also had to establish his personal authority over the bickering Allies.

The Russians had proposed that Tokyo be turned into a divided city, as Berlin had been, that the Soviet Union occupy the northern main island of Hokkaido and that the Japanese army be split up and sent to the Soviet Union, the United States and other allied nations as slave labor.

MacArthur coldly turned thumbs down on all these and refused to accept the interference of the 13-nation Allied Commission.

His first series of directives freed political prisoners, established freedom of the press, disbanded the "thought police."

MacArthur's next big step was to draw up a constitution which made the emperor a vague "symbol of state" and outlawed war as an instrument of national policy.

In the years that followed he instituted a sweeping land reform program, gave women the vote, revised the ultra-conservative educational system and obtained financial assistance from the United States which permitted Japan to rebuild its shattered industry and finally embark on the road to its present prosperity.

MacArthur's land reform program, which strengthened the conservative farming class, was credited with preventing Japan from swinging to the left. At the same time, he was criticized for permitting Communists to resume legal activity.

Many of his occupation policies were attacked from one quarter or another. Most of them have survived intact. It is one of the ironies of history that the chief supporters of his no-war constitution are the Socialists and Communists who today are the chief Japanese critics of the United States. It is this constitution which gives them the right to criticize as they do.

Supertanker Knocks Out Maracaibo Bridge

MARACAIBO, Venezuela (AP)—The heavily loaded supertanker Esso Maracaibo knocked out a 1,500-foot section of the bridge across Lake Maracaibo early today, plunging two or more automobiles from the bridge into the water.

All traffic on the lake—center of Venezuela's huge oil industry—was halted for 90 minutes. Divers with searchlights were combing the lake bed looking for two to four cars reported to have sunk.

None of the 36,000-ton tanker's all-Venezuelan crew was hurt, although great chunks of concrete from the overpass fell on the vessel's bow causing it to list heavily.

The tanker struck a bridge piling near Punta Iguana on the east end of the 5½ mile bridge, Latin America's largest, as it was heading out of the lake.

NATO Nuclear Fleet Plans Are Discussed

LONDON (AP)—Allied naval and missile experts have told member nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization the U.S. plan for a multinational nuclear fleet is feasible, but the Atlantic partners are awaiting a report on the legal, financial and control factors.

The experts, who conducted their inquiries in Washington, reportedly told the NATO governments that Polaris missile launchers could be placed effectively on surface ships. They also gave them an idea how much such a fleet would add to the West's deterrent strength.

No decision on setting up the surface force is expected before the British and U.S. elections later this year. Britain's opposition Labor party, which has a good chance of winning power, is against the plan.

Russia Would Like U.S. to Bail Her Out, Prof Says

cultural production in this country, Nutter said. The Russians produce about 70 per cent as much as the United States.

The professor hastened to point out that while the overall economy of Russia is slowing down, this has not weakened the military posture of the country.

"Russia still maintains its armed forces and still spends about 35 per cent of its industrial production on its military and space program," he said.

The professor compared that to the total of about 12 per cent of the industrial production that the United States spends for its military and space programs.

Prof. Nutter is the subject of a question and answer interview about Russia in the April 13 issue of U.S. News and World Report now on the newsstands. The story also is publicized on the front cover of the magazine.

Nutter said that Russia does not have the natural resources for agricultural production that the United States has, and compared Russian farming land to that of Canada.

"But this is not a new problem in Russia. During czarist days Russia had some of the finest agronomists in the world. They knew the problems the country has with agriculture," he pointed out.

While Russian Premier Khrushchev now has to look for new answers, he has been able to put off reckoning because of some good luck in weather in the past and by taking grain from the Russian empire as well as using the grain that previously was fed to horses, Nutter said.

The professor pointed out that the Russian economy has not grown as fast, from his point of view, as many people think. "It has not grown any more from 1917 to 1964 than, say, our own economy from 1870 to World War I," he said.

While Russia must find more food, the country is not in a good position to trade for it for this would mean emphasizing another part of the economy to produce the trade items, he said.

Further, Nutter pointed out, the Russian leaders are committed to making the country self-sufficient in food.

The current Communist leaders of Russia are in the same fix as the czarist leaders of earlier days — they know the system is not working and should be reformed, but how to do it is the question, Nutter said.

"The czars knew that serfdom was bad and had to go, but they didn't know how to get rid of it. They didn't know how to reform without themselves being swept away in the change. When the change came, the aristocracy was swept away along with serfdom."

Current Communist leaders face the same problem, but how to change the system without themselves being swept away in the change is the problem, Nutter explained.

There are alternatives to the current Russian problem as Nutter sees it:

1. Russia could become aggressive like the Chinese. The tougher things are at home, the tougher its foreign policy so that it can divert attention away from the home crisis. They have denounced this idea.

2. The Russian leaders could crack down on the populace by reinstating a reign of terror of the kind Joseph Stalin used to rule, and not worry about the living standards. This would not be attractive nor easy and the cost would be enormous.

3. Reform the system from the point of view of helping the people — but this answer is very unlikely.

On this point Nutter shrugged his shoulders and said, "Ah well, they have this crazy, collectivized system for farm production, and although they know it doesn't produce well, the alternatives (freeing the farmer for private farming operations) are worse from their point of view."

4. This is the easiest way — get the United States to bail Russia out of its troubles by a huge loan.

"That is what they are trying to do. I don't blame them, if I was in their mess, I'd try that idea, too. They are in a mess, they want to get out and that is the easiest way," Nutter explained.

"I hope we don't do it," he added.

"Their hope is to get help from Uncle Sam that will tide them over for five or ten years through big loans and face the problem of what to do about paying the loans when they come due," he said.

Such an answer to the Russian problems requires the least amount of commitment on the nation's part and also holds the least danger for the Communist leaders, Nutter explained.

Russia got into this slowdown of its economic system when the leaders believed they had their food problem solved in 1956-58 and so spent more money on the military and space program, Nutter said.

However, the food problem was not solved, and while 1958 was the greatest year for food production, the situation got worse after that.

The corn-hog production program Khrushchev planned was a bust, and the virgin lands wheat production program came a cropper when the country dried out because of drouth.

The crisis became worse last year when drought struck both the Ukrainian wheat area and the virgin land area of Kazakstan, Nutter said.

The Russians are still making some money off the empire, Nutter believes, though he admits some other economists differ with him and are convinced that the empire is no longer profitable.

"They still are making some money because of the discriminatory trade policy with the countries in the empire. Russia pays less and charges more and thus makes money, but she is not getting as much as she used to get from the satellites," he said.

"The Poles have an expression to explain their trade with Russia. They say, 'Yes, we trade with the Russians. We sell coal to Russia and they take our wheat,'" he said.

The empire of Poland, East Germany, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary, is not as secure as it was ten years ago, Nutter said.

He pointed out that Poland has kept its agriculture comparatively free of collectivization.

The living scale now is going up in Hungary, although it probably can't keep that up for very long.

Romania is sort of kicking up its heels. "Last year Romania thumbed its nose at Moscow and decided it would industrialize, although others wanted Romania to remain a farming area," he said.

Bulgaria has no great prosperity, and Czechoslovakia, like Poland, is having a slowdown of its economy.

District 11 Schools Give Record UF Sum

Pupils in District 11 schools contributed a record $5,431 to the Students United Fund this year, according to Charles M. Day, administrative assistant.

The two fund drives in October and February raised $261 more than in 1962-63, the best previous year. Day said the $3,137.79 that pupils gave during the October campaign was also a record for a single semester. Since 1956, when the SUF was founded, pupils have given nearly $36,000 for several worthy causes.

The largest share of the SUF funds will go to help support the Pikes Peak United Fund. The committee that administers the SUF voted last September to contribute $3,367 or 50 per cent of its total collections, depending upon which is larger, to the United Fund.

Before the end of the present school year, the committee will allot the remainder of its funds to several organizations that do not receive aid from the United Fund, Day said.

The SUF Committee includes representatives of pupils, teachers, principals, and administrators. Pupils hold all the offices on the committee except that of second vice-president.

Police Probe Burglaries, Thefts, Today

Police this morning were investigating several thefts and burglaries which were reported Monday.

A settling tank and an oxygen tank worth a total of $90 were stolen from a trailer at the construction site of the James Monroe School sometime over the weekend.

Thieves pried the lock off a door to the trailer. Victim of the theft is the Jolly Plumbing and Heating Co., 625 Arrawanna St. The construction site is located at 3601 E. Pikes Peak Ave.

A car was stolen from Joseph Robert Shields, 110 Canon Ave., Manitou Springs. Shields told police he parked the car in the Golf Acres Shopping Center and went shopping Monday afternoon. When he returned a short time later, the car was gone. Police have a pickup out for the 1955 Buick.

The home of Ethel Agnes Hedges, 1231 N. Bonfoy Ave., was burglarized Monday and three silver dollars stolen from the top of a bedroom dresser. Thieves gained entry to the home by prying a molding from a window and removing the glass.

Meal tickets worth $30 and a set of keys were stolen from a cash register at Jones' Drive-In Restaurant, 2703 W. Colorado Ave., after thieves broke in through a rear door Sunday night or Monday morning. Gladys G. Jones, the owner of the business, reported the burglary.

Evelyn H. Schroeder, 1409 E. Buena Ventura St., reported the theft of a spare tire and wheel. The items were taken from the victim's car Sunday night or Monday morning. The car was parked in front of the victim's home at the time of the theft.

A youth broke into the home of Frankie Mae Bishop, 818 S. Cascade Ave., Monday afternoon. A neighbor told police she saw the youth knock on the back door of the Bishop residence and then break a rear window and enter the home.

The neighbor apparently frightened off the burglar when she went over to the Bishop residence and started to knock on the door. Nothing was reported missing from the house.

Gazette Truck Jumps Curb Hits Two Trees

The driver of the truck, William L. Klipsch, 25, of 222 N. Wahsatch Ave., told police he was northbound when a car pulled out in front of the truck, forcing it to veer to the left and over the curbing.

The driver of the car which is alleged to have pulled out in front of the truck was Allan Elias Stachel of 30 Boulder Crescent.

Jury Selection Starts in Robbery Trial

Jury selction for the trial of Larry Smith West charged with aggravated robbery and conspiracy started in District Court this morning with Judge David W. Enoch on the bench.

West, 24, formerly of Cascade, is accused of holding up Furr's Supermarket, 1645 S. Tejon St., Dec. 4 and conspiring with William H. Thomas and Michael A. Coy. Three thousand one hundred and sixteen dollars and seventeen cents were taken.

West has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity, and though he has been declared legally sane by Dr. Charles Meredith of the Colorado State Hospital, he is apparently still standing on the insanity plea.

Thomas, 23, of Lamar, was found guilty of aggravated robbery March 5 but has been granted a motion for a new trial on the grounds that the appearance of West and Coy as witnesses during his trial was prejudicial. He is scheduled for trial May 19.

Coy, 31, 1927 S. Franklin St. was found guilty of the same charges April 2.

A fourth man, Robert Ryan, 27, 1927 S. Franklin St. has also been charged with aggravated robbery, receiving stolen property and conspiracy arising out of the Furr Food incident.

He has pleaded innocent to all three counts and his trial has been set for April 21 but as he turned state's evidence against Coy and his companions during Coy's trial it is probable, a member of the district attorney's office said last week, that he will change his plea to guilty.

IBM Unveils Latest Computing Equipment

of graduated speed and memory capacity. Incorporated with these are more than 40 types of peripheral equipment which store information and enter it into and retrieve it from the computer. Built-in communications capability makes System-360 available to remote terminals, regardless of distance.

The equipment is supported by programs which enable System-360 to schedule its own activites for non-stop computing that makes most efficient use of system capabilities.

Internal processing power of the largest System-360 configuration is approximately 50 times greater than that of the smallest. The system's machine cycle time — basic pulse beat of a computer — ranges from one millionth-of-a-second to only 200 billionths-of-a-second.

System-360 core storage memory capacity ranges from 8,000 characters of information to more than 8,000,000. Information storage devices linked to the system can store additional billions of characters of data and make them available for processing at varying speeds, depending on need.

It is the balancing of these factors — all available within a single system using one set of programming instructions — that will make it possible for a user to select a configuration suited to his own requirements for both commercial and scientific computing. With the same type of imput-output devices, a user can expand his System-360 to any point in its performance range, without reprogramming.

System-360 monthly rentals will range from $2,700 for a basic configuration to $115,000 for a typical large multisystem configuration. Comparable purchase prices range from $133,000 to $5,500,000.

Deliveries of the small configurations of System-360 are scheduled to begin in the third quarter of 1965. Deliveries of the largest configurations are scheduled to begin in the first quarter of 1966.

MacArthur's Body Kept On View at Famed Armory

Coast Guard enlisted men were drilled so they would be perfect in today's funeral events. A man from each service was to stand exactly two paces from the casket's corner, frozen at attention.

The regimental armory, where the simple casket of cold rolled steel, standard Army issue, was placed during the night on a black-draped catafalque, dates to 1880. It is a red brick building topped by parapets.

The 7th Regiment, which drills there, is 158 years old, an outgrowth of colonial militia. Its men, who must be "gentlemen" have won honors in World Wars I and II.

The body lay at the Universal Funeral Chapel, Lexington Avenue and 52nd Street, not far from the hotel apartment where MacArthur had lived the past 13 years. Only members of the family and intimate friends were permitted to view the body.

The widow, Jean MacArthur, and son, Arthur, 26, visited the funeral home for about five minutes.

The general was clad in the tropical uniform he wore in the Pacific war and during the Korean summers. In accordance with his custom, he wore none of his many medals, just the five stars of his rank.

As the body lay in repose, 19-gun salutes roared at many places—at West Point where he made the most brilliant scholastic record of all time, and later was superintendent, in New York, as well as other Army areas on the continent, and at selected points in the Pacific.

In Washington leaders of Congress made arrangements for the body to lie in state in the Capitol rotunda Wednesday and Thursday. The general will be buried in the MacArthur Memorial building at Norfolk, Va., Saturday, after funeral services at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in that city.

Truman Wanted to Fire MacArthur, Martin Says

commander in the Far East, and the long military career of the general came to an end.

"I never had any regrets about making that letter public," Martin said. "I always figured that Truman wanted to fire MacArthur anyway. He did it all too quickly. He fired him two days after I released the letter. If it had not been the letter, Truman would have found some other excuse."

"It is funny," the 79-year-old congressman continued. "MacArthur never mentioned that letter to me at all. And I never said a word about it, either. I always felt, let sleeping dogs lie."

Martin said he first met MacArthur when the general was Army chief of staff during the early 1930s. The late Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York, then a Republican congressman brought them together.

"Mayor La Guardia had this apartment, and he liked to make chowder, and one day, he said to me, 'Come on over and have some chowder with General MacArthur,'" Martin recalled.

"We saw each other from time to time. I would not say we were intimates. But we were friends. In 1952, I went to see him and suggested that he become a candidate for the Republican nomination for president.

"'No,' he replied to me. 'I can't become a candidate. Bob Taft has earned the nomination.' I have always felt that MacArthur might have announced as a candidate if Taft had withdrawn from the race, but Taft, of course, had no intention of withdrawing, because he thought he would win the nomination, and he almost did."

Martin, who said he always called on MacArthur when visiting New York in the last few years, walked to the other end of his office to point to a framed document.

It was a copy of a speech by a Roman general, Lucius Clemilus Paulus, replying to his military critics in 168 B.C.

The speech said, in part:

"If therefore, anyone thinks himself qualified to give advice respecting the war which I am conducting, which may prove advantageous to the public, let him not refuse his assistance to the state, but let him come with me to Macedonia.

"He shall be furnished with a ship, a horse, a tent; even his traveling charges shall be defrayed.

"But if he thinks this too much trouble and prefers the repose of a city life to the tools of war, let him not, on land, assume the office of a pilot."

Underneath was the inked inscription "Amen!" and the signature, "Douglas MacArthur."

"He sent this to me two years ago," Martin said. "It sort of touches the whole point of everything, doesn't it?"

School Census Taking to Start In District 11

School District 11 will take its annual school census starting Friday and continuing through April 24. During that time one of the district's 52 census takers, all of them women, will call at every home in the district.

Miss Helen Bailey, director of Pupil Accounting and Testing Services, says a Colorado law requires the annual census, and she requests residents to cooperate by answering the seven brief questions the ladies will ask.

Census takers make their calls during the day; but if no one is home, they call again during the early evening hours. All the census workers wear a badge giving their name and identifying them as representatives of School District 11.

Miss Bailey urges residents to check this identification before admitting anyone to their home. She says that almost every year some people misrepresent themselves as census takers to gain entry to homes. The district does not employ men as census takers, Miss Bailey adds.

Census takers will ask if there is anyone in the home under the age of 21 who is not enrolled in a public or parochial school. This includes married and employed persons, high school graduates, college students, and members of the armed services.

Three other questions concern physically handicapped children and adults. Census takers will also ask if there are any residents over the age of eight who cannot read and write.

The last question asks whether parents with children in the public schools are employed as civilians at Fort Carson, Ent, Air Force Academy, a missile base, an overseas base, or any other federal installation, or are employed by the U. S. Forest Service.

Hiram T. Curtis Dies; Services Wednesday

Hiram T. Curtis, 406 S. 11th St., former rancher and miner, died Saturday at 89 at a local hospital. He had been a resident of Colorado Springs for 15 years. He came here from Victor, to which city he went from Kansas 70 years ago. He mined for 10 years and homesteaded on a ranch near Victor. He was a member of the Evangelical United Brethren Church.

Mr. Curtis was born in Cottonwood Falls, Kan., Oct. 16, 1874. In 1900, at Victor, he was married to Flora Sheets, who survives him. Probe of School Bond Sale in State Slated which institutions were members.

Gann made his statements in a report to the Legislative Interim Committee on Codification of School Laws.

He said it appeared that the syndicate had handled about $100 million worth of advance refunding bonds for Colorado school districts during one year's operation.

The combine was organized, he told the committee, to encourage legislation for advance refunding of bonds and to "assure the orderly marketing of such bonds. Each company bought a certain per cent of the 'account' which obligated them to pay a per cent of the expenses and assured them that their company would receive a per cent of all advance refunding issues regardless of which company achieved them.

"They assured us that it had not been the practice in any advance refunding for the members of this 'account' to bid against one another in negotiation with the school district."

As a result a school district received only a bid from virtually all Colorado municipal bond dealers. It was reported that some school districts achieved better results—greater savings—by negotiating outside the state for sale of their bonds.

Gann said also that the syndicate was believed to have broken up last month. A newsletter from one financial firm—Ranson & Co.—said that the combine was broken up because "criticism is mounting against an operation that limits districts to one bid from Colorado municipal dealers."

The newsletter was sent to Colorado education officials.

Advance refunding is a method whereby school districts can sell successive bond issues to shorten the payment term for school bonds and lessen the burden of property tax payers. After the first bond issue—proceeds of which are used in school construction—successive bond issues are used to purchase government bonds.

Since government bonds pay higher interest rates than do school bonds, the federal bonds are used as security to pay off school bonds in shorter periods of time. Theoretically, it is possible that through enough advance refunding sales a school district's bonded indebtedness could be reduced to zero.

Bonding houses handle the sales for fees. But it is reported that when school bond issues are secured by government bonds, the sales price of the original issues goes up. This, one source said, can lead to big profits from speculation in school bonds.

New Trial Will Be Sought For Jack Ruby

By PEGGY SIMPSON

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Defense lawyers are putting finishing touches on an amended motion asking a new trial for convicted murderer Jack Ruby.

Unless the lawyers ask for more time, they will file their appeal Wednesday or Thursday, the deadline under Texas law.

Dist. Judge Joe Brown has 20 days from the filing of the amended motion to schedule a hearing.

In other developments, Sheriff Bill Decker fired two jail guards Monday for "obvious negligence" in allowing seven prisoners to make a sensational escape March 6, at the height of the Ruby trial.

The prisoners, two of whom are still at large, kept policemen and spectators at bay by brandishing a fake gun they carved out of soap and blackened with shoe polish. They passed only a wall away from the courtroom where Ruby was being tried for the Nov. 24 slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

Decker said the guards, A. S. Greer and Troy L. Richey "disregarded jail rules" but did not elaborate. They had been suspended since the break.

The balding Ruby, who operated a striptease joint before he shot Oswald, spends much of his time reading and answering a flood of mail, the sheriff said.

Ruby's three defense attorneys see him from three to five times a week.

The defense indicated their amended motion would add several new reasons why they think Ruby deserves a new trial. In their original motion March 20, the defense named 36 errors they said Judge Brown made during the month-long trial.

Atom Ship Savannah Undergoes Cleanup

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — After a year of little activity, the nuclear ship Savannah is in drydock undergoing a general clean-up.

The sleek ship, the world's first atomic-powered merchant vessel, was moored here nearly a year because of labor problems. During that time her bottom became encrusted with barnacles and paint began chipping.

The Savannah is scheduled to leave next week for Houston, New Orleans, Baltimore, Boston, New York and Germany and England.

Three Old-Line Stalinists Are Drummed Out

The three, who for years ranked among the world's most powerful men were former Premiers Georgi Malenkov and V. M. Molotov and former First Deputy Premier Lazar Kaganovich.

All were known as disciples of the Stalin line, particularly Molotov, who has sided with the Communist Chinese in their ideological struggle with the Soviet Union.

Although the 22nd Congress of the Communist party in 1961 voted the ouster of the three ex-leaders, their long-awaited final disgrace came to light only Friday in Pravda.

The party newspaper disclosed their expulsion—one of the severest penalties that can befall a Soviet politician — in publishing theoretician Mikhail Suslov's 10,000-word denunciation of the Chinese Communists.

Melchior Wants Company; Takes Bride at Age 74

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I have lived alone for a year and I have not liked it. So I thought I should have a companion for my sunset years."

Lauritz Melchior was talking at his mountaintop chalet about his marriage May 23 to Mary Markham, 40-year-old television producer who was once his secretary. A pretty, personable blonde, she was at his side beaming at her future husband, once again helping answer his mail.

Melchior at 74 seems a long way from sunset. His girth is still Wagnerian — both he and his future bride agree he'll be dieting—and his rich tenor can still ring to the rafters.

Further evidence of his youthfulness was offered by Miss Markham with mock complaint: "We'll have a week's honeymoon in Hawaii and then he's going to leave me to hunt ice bear in Norway and Greenland."

Melchior added: "After hunting ice bear, I look forward to coming back to a warm home."

He is now involved in plans to refurbish his Mulholland Drive home, a showplace which features his hunting trophies, so it will fit his new family. His bride-to-be has a 3-year-old son by a previous marriage, also named Lauritz.

"The boy and I get along fine," said Melchior, himself a grandfather, "but then, I have always liked children."

Melchior's singing activity has slowed down in recent years and he has earned his rest. He began singing opera in 1913 and his work load has matched the size of his voice and build. At the Metropolitan Opera House alone he performed 512 times, missing only three engagements.

"Actually I started singing at 9 in the choir of my church in Denmark," he said. "But I didn't sing professionally until I was full-grown, and I am glad of that. I think it is wrong for young people to start singing before audiences at too early an age. They usually burn themselves out.

"It is better for a singer to wait until he has matured, both in body and mind and personality. Ah, that is the key: personality. In our business success is 10 per cent voice and 90 per cent personality. Anyone can have a voice. But if he cannot communicate it to others, it is worthless."

"I have always said you should live your life so that on your dying day you can look back with no regrets—not even about your mistakes," he commented. "The important things to have are a sense of humor, and love, and friendship.

"We know our marriage won't last for 38 years. But we're going to enjoy it as long as we can."

IN THE HOLE

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) —A hand-lettered sign appeared today in a crevice in Anchorage where the earth had sunk 30 feet for an area a half block wide and two or three blocks long.

The sign, written on cardboard with crayon, was attached to a concrete block office building that had broken in half and read:

ALL AROUND THE CLOCK
ALL AROUND THE CALENDAR
ALL AROUND THE COUNTRY
ALL AROUND THE CAR

An Oldsmobile sedan speeds onto the skid pad and the driver spins the steering wheel as far as it will go. This is the J-turn the engineers at our Michigan Proving Ground use to test wheel design and suspension. And to prove that the tires will stay on the rims without loss of air pressure, despite the stresses and strains of doing it over and over again. We use tests this tough because, to us, proving a car all around means testing every part, from the wheels to the roof, to know just how well it will do for you. That means thousands of hours of outdoor challenges. It means testing cars indoors on specially built precision laboratory equipment. Other times, it means driving a car into the countryside on a winter's night. Whether it's done in Michigan, at Pikes Peak, in Arizona, or on the public highways, it means testing GM cars the long way, the hard way, the right way... on the world's truest proving grounds. And testing before they go into production. That's why a GM car is so likely to be worth more when you buy it, as you drive it, when you trade it in.

Where There's a Will There's a Right of Way

Just south of Durango, Colorado, and across the state line into New Mexico is the town of Aztec, population, 4,111. Nineteen miles east of Aztec the Department of Interior is putting in a huge dam and thus creating a major lake, about 34 miles long.

The good people of Aztec, with a big lake coming to the dry and dusty area, quite naturally wanted a road that would go from their town over to the lake. But in spite of delegates from the town calling on the big white father in Washington, the government would make no move to put in the highway.

The National Observer, in its March 30 issue, tells what the people did. And what they did proves once more that roads don't have to be government projects. They can be installed and built by private citizens.

The State Highway Commission estimated that a 19-mile stretch of gravel connecting Aztec with the lake would cost about $250,000. The money was not available. So, working through the Chamber of Commerce, the people of Aztec took on the project themselves.

J. B. Collard, owner of a shoe store and president of the Chamber, said of what occurred: "One guy thinks of something and then another."

Someone, no one seems to know who, suggested that roads weren't the exclusive products of the state and that the people could build one if they set their minds to it.

"We had no plans," says Al Williams, owner of a supermarket. "We just whipped each problem as it came up. Joe McKinney, our foreman, would tell us what we needed and we'd set on the phone till 10 at night trying to find it."

First, of course, all land owners between the town and the lake had to be contacted. You can't just run a road across someone's front yard (however barren looking) without his okay. It took a bit of doing but every bit of land required for the right of way was DONATED by the landowners, once they were assured that there was no power of eminent domain out to take their land away from them by force.

With the exception of one bulldozer operator who was paid, the rest of the work was DONATED. Almost all of the equipment was loaned and some of the material was donated. Local firms donated trucks and whole crews of men. One local lady undertook the task of bringing hot lunches to the workers every day. They've named a landmark after her as her remuneration.

The course of the road was a difficult one. "Everything but the terrain cooperated." Solid rock had to be dynamited out of the way in three places. The Pump Canyon Wash turned out to be so large that 8,000 yards of rock and dirt had to be hauled and 60 feet of 7-foot diameter concrete pipe had to be installed in order to complete the crossing.

The high school students put on a play and raised $52, net. A group of businessmen signed a $5,000 note at the bank. Finally, last year, the road was completed just ahead of fishing season. Total cost: $21,600; total value: $250,000.

But the big gain, as is being commented upon by the folks of Aztec, is the new spirit to be found in the town. The federal government will now use Aztec as a staging area for work on a huge irrigation project to be started at the lake. Aztec can become a future tourist mecca, with a direct road to a major lake originating in their town.

So Aztec is in for a bit of a boom and the folks in town know each other and know they can depend on each other.

As Chamber President Collard sees it: "But best of all, the building of the road meant a new spirit of pride in town. We got together and built something that had been talked about for years, and without government help. It proves the old pioneer spirit still exists."

Indeed, it does. It also helps to demonstrate that we are not nearly as dependent on the federal government or on state governments as people often think. Where there's a will, there can soon be a right-of-way.

The Russians used to say: "If everyone gives one thread, the poor man will have a shirt." What the Russians are beginning to learn is that by this process, everyone is left with a shirt that unravels.

The Attack on Profit

A little pamphlet which saw the light of day back in 1960 but which only came to our attention recently, is deserving of your examination if you really want to know who the enemies of the free market system are.

The brief publication is an excellent work by George Koether, entitled: "The Attack on Profit." Its approach to the subject is thorough enough to bring on a loss of morale.

Mr. Koether begins by pointing out that profit today is taking the blame for "high prices, inflation, monopoly, exploitation, over-saving, speculation, privilege and waste" and he suggests that Friedrich Engels, were he alive, would have no reason to complain about the general attitude of Americans in their overt hostility to profits.

But to make certain that his point doesn't escape recognition by excessive generalizing, Koether cites Walter Reuther, Estes Kefauver, Senator Hubert Humphrey, Harry S. Truman, Leon H. Keyserling, Chester Bowles and Barbara Ward. Each of these well known personages is on record as believing that profits cause high prices.

To establish that profits are believed to be monopolistic, he cites from Philip Murray and Professor Seymour Harris of Harvard.

The theory that profits cause waste, a favorite among socialists since the days of Marx, has been supported by Walter Rauschenbusch and Stuart Chase.

The American Magazine and Senator Richard Neuberger joined hands and are quoted as stating that profits derive from war. They are only a step away from saying that wars are made by profit seekers.

To establish that profits are unethical if not downright immoral, Koether quotes Stuart Cloete, Henry Steele Commager, Professor E. H. Carr and Reinhold Niebuhr.

With this formidable line-up of the enemies of profits, the author then proceeds to give us a short history of the development of socialist thought concerning the profit picture. He traces this from Karl Marx's outbursts of hatred against capital to Sir Maynard Keynes and his carefully stated "general theory" which provides for the government to keep a medicine cabinet full of "pep pills" (tax dollars) by means of which it can administer a dose of vitamins to a lagging economy.

His summation is important: "Everyone had buried laissez-faire. 'The Truth is,' Woodrow Wilson had proclaimed, 'we are all caught in a great economic system which is heartless.'

"Now it was the businessman's turn to bury capitalism and the profit and loss system on which it depended. The former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, and president of a large industrial corporation, said, on June 3, 1957, 'The public asks questions. We hasten to make answers. But they often fail to impress. . . We have in the United States a workable society which is neither the creature of government nor a jungle of laissez-faire. . . What we have today is beyond socialism and capitalism. It is a new society. . .'

"And what is that 'new society'? It threatens increasingly to be the system envisioned by Keynes, an economy managed not by the free market but by 'semi-autonomous bodies within the state . . . from whose deliberations motives of private advantage are excluded.'

"If the businessman buries laissez-faire, it only remains for him to be consistent, to abandon the profit motive on which economic freedom rests, and to assume his role as a semi-autonomous lackey in a government-managed economy. . . During the profit-maker's time a handful of struggling colonies rose to great national power, wealth and prestige. Without him (the profit seeker), America would be destined to sink first to mediocrity, then to defeat — and, finally, to oblivion."

To The Point

For Dancing, Not for Truth

By RUSSELL KIRK

In its infinite wisdom, Chief Justice Warren's Supreme Court has informed us that it is unconstitutional nowadays to read the Bible or to pray in public schools. An even livelier constitutional question was raised a few days ago in Jenison school district, near Grand Rapids, Michigan: is it unconstitutional NOT to allow dancing in the schools?

A band of secularist parents complained loudly to the Jenison school board that though prayers and the recounting of stories from the Bible survive in Jenison schools, there are no school and class dances. (Parent-sponsored dances are permitted, though.) "But this is unconstitutional," cried one parent, apparently as enamored of dancing as was St. Vitus. "If we want you to be moralists," he shouted at the members of the school board, "we'll hire you as ministers." He went on to argue that George Washington had danced, and that Lincoln would have liked to, but couldn't.

Such is the spirit of the age, chums. Will the Honorable Earl Warren rush to the rescue of these unhappy parents and their deprived offspring, denied their constitutional right to twist and to rejoice in the Bossa Nova, within school premises? Get rid of those old fogies who want to instruct children in the nature of things, and usher in the edifying combo!

Why, the teachers in this benighted Jenison school — which is situated in a community where most people belong to the Dutch Reformed church — actually try to impart moral principles to their young charges! How reactionary and unconstitutional! Some parents of the protesting clique, according to a newspaper report, accused teachers of passing moral judgments. Students had been admonished not to study on Sunday, and one teacher had told her pupils that trick-or-treating was really stealing, said two mothers.

Well, perhaps public schools themselves are unconstitutional, if one follows this chain of reasoning to its conclusion. For a primary purpose of all schools, from the beginning of civilization, has been the teaching of the first principles of human decency. Schools are meant, in great part, to enable young folk to learn what it is to be truly human — to tell them the rules. And if primary teachers in these United States are forbidden to indulge in "moral judgments," then indeed we might as well turn the classrooms over to the Beatles.

In Sweden, a large committee of doctors has protested against the proposed reduction of the number of hours in Swedish classrooms now devoted to religious instruction. Swedish young people already are morally astray and bewildered, these doctors say — and one symptom there is the appalling rise of the rate of gonorrhea among teen-agers. "Moral judgments" are precisely what Swedish children need.

Yet Swedish children still are permitted four hours of religious and moral instruction a week, and at worst will be reduced to two hours. Here in America, our school children get none. It will be interesting to see what little boys and girls are like, after a decade or two of this total prohibition of religious and moral instruction. On with the ball! Righteous parents, let's twist, in the name of the Constitution and George Washington!

Big-City Blues

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD

A lot of people who live in the larger cities are burying their heads in the sand. They ignore the growing crime rate, the rapidly mounting taxes, the absence of cash when they want to sell property, the growing number of suicides and every other unpleasant aspect of the socialism which plagues all the people throughout the country. Reactions to conditions are easy to spot in the smaller communities from one to two months before city dwellers know what's going on.

For instance, prices on food increase in Kingman, Arizona before prices on the same products go up in Las Vegas and for the past several weeks prices have been going up rapidly in Kingman. For instance, the price of coffee has risen 10 cents a pound, in one jump, and another increase is expected. Meat prices have dropped a little but chickens and turkeys are the best values. Prices on rabbits have been unreasonably high for some time, due to the high cost of feed and the relatively lower volume of sales.

Theoretically, the increases in prices may be ignored by workers who now receive a bit more pay because of the tax reduction but it isn't working out that way, generally.

Consumers continue to control the market and this is important to know. A super market got in a load of fish which it displayed at a high price. Four days later, the price on the fish was more than 40 per cent less. Hams were high priced a week ago but they are now cheaper in Kingman than in Las Vegas and southern California. This means that if Californians wait awhile, the price of ham will come down with a rush, if they want ham then.

At first glance it would seem that when government slightly reduced its take out of each pay check, liquor sales would increase and also prices on liquor, but liquor sales are down generally throughout the country and smart merchandisers have discovered several brands which are not well known and the prices are ridiculously low for good to excellent quality.

Wheat sales to Russia, on long-term credit to a buyer who rarely pays its bills, have created odd conditions in retail markets. Obviously, a strong revulsion takes many forms. For instance, both major political parties are having a bad time trying to build up their money chests and this is causing more furtive conversation about legislation which will enable government to channel tax dollars into the hands of politicians. The party faithfuls are showing up at the fund-raising events but the unfaithful manage to be conspicuous by their absence and the faithful are getting tired of carrying the load and enduring political banquets at the same time. Indigestion gets a little tiresome.

New and used-car sales are up supposedly but there's something odd about that. Used-car prices are taking a beating in an inflationary situation and at least one wholesale outlet or broker is trying to build up a mail-order business which includes all brands at discount prices, F.O.B. New York. An outlet for one-year-old taxicabs is trying to do some business on a cash basis at very low prices, providing delivery to your door service at $35 plus gasoline from New York.

Two weeks ago, in a discussion with a California real estate man, we discovered how much over-priced real estate is drugging the market. Many very fancy financing deals are being negotiated but a shrewd buyer with cash can go out and beat the price by as much as 50 per cent and even more, and if you don't think this is part of the big-city blues, you haven't tried to get cash money for your property lately.

Stock market prices are irrational and the big city people know it while pretending everything is just fine and dandy for another round. When one of the leading industrialists in the country explains the situation complete with facts and figures, the experts just don't read or listen because if they pay attention the nightmares and ulcers take over. While one man states facts and figures, another industrialist gets busy trying to bolster up confidence by going out on a limb for the savings bond sales drive which has slowed to a stumbling halt.

Here's another item: Sales up 14 per cent, profits off by more than 30 per cent.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

The State Will Do Your Hiring

From Chicago Tribune

A foretaste of what employers may expect if the "equal employment opportunity" provisions of the federal civil rights bill become law has been provided here in Illinois under the state fair employment practices act. An agent for the commission enforcing the act has just told Motorola, Inc., that the state hereafter assumes to direct its hiring practices.

Motorola has been giving job applicants a general ability test devised by a professor at Illinois Institute of Technology and used by at least one other large Chicago employer.

A Negro applicant charged that he was denied employment because of his race. The corporation said he failed the test. The claimant said he had passed it. He did pass it on re-examination in the FEPC office, and the company was ordered to hire him. But the question of fact concerning the results of the original test is less germane than the excursions of the examiner beyond that point.

This official, Robert E. Bryant, decreed that Motorola must abandon ability tests for job applicants for three reasons: 1) that the test was unfair to "culturally deprived and disadvantaged groups"; 2) that the questions did not take into account "inequalities and differences in environment"; and 3) that the standards for passing were based on those of "advantaged groups."

This may be reduced to the absurdity that any test acceptable to the FEPC would be one which brought out no distinctions whatsoever among competing applicants and would therefore be meaningless. How, then, is the employer to develop any basis for making a choice in hiring?

The examiner's further dicta were not of a sort to reassure bedeviled employers. He said that "current circumstances and objectives" impose the demand that hiring personnel develop "general convictions of economic need" among minority groups and that executives "move positively" to achieve an unspecified balance in their work force.

As merit and ability demonstrated by testing is out the window, this would seem to be a prescription for reverse discrimination — i.e., that race, color, religion, or something else be given priority over judgments of a job applicant's prospective usefulness to his employer.

So here the doctrine is enunciated that a political appointee is going to dictate to business what standards of selection are to govern its employment policy. A business man is not to be allowed to decide the choice of workers or associates best fitted to advance his business interests. In the name of "rights," the employer's rights are canceled.

In our recent editorial discussion of the federal "fair employment" section of the civil rights bill, we said that government was intent on legislating itself into partnership with private business and dictating hiring, firing, and promotion policies. The ruling in Illinois demonstrates that once the snout is in the tent, the rest of the camel will quickly follow.

The federal commission is empowered to bring charges of unfair practice on its own motion, and without a complaint; to turn loose its agents and lawyers on a business, with power to examine books and papers and to question employes or executives; and to require that an employer keep records of who applies for a job, who gets it, who does not, and why.

All this is to be done under standards not prescribed, but vague and sujective in nature, according to what the agent thinks is discrimination and what he guesses may have been in an employer's mind. Under such ground rules, the harassment of business and industry could be unrestricted and unlimited.

SHIRT TALE

To the Editor:

LBJ is vote-conscious. He has heard that there is poverty everywhere. Votes are to be had. He will declare war on poverty and will appoint Sergeant Shriver to be the commander-in-chief of the non-existent army. They are unsure as to just what poverty is, so they declare that a family with an income of $3,000 or less is poor and needs help. The children need education and grown-ups need jobs. At least they know where the battles are to be fought.

The Labor Department, with Walter Reuther behind the throne, pays orphans, unwed mothers, old folks and unemployed in general, a liberal subsidy for idling their time away. AFL-CIO controls jobs and wages.

Nevertheless the newly hatched commander-in-chief dons his armor, mounts his steed, closes his eyes and charges the windmills. We families of incomes below $3,000 are watching intently to learn if he will lick poverty before socialist taxes lick us.

An understanding of the word poverty is necessary. This old story of "The Happy Man's Shirt" will delineate the line between poverty and opulence.

The old king was ill with a strange ailment. Ulcers had not yet been discovered, so the medical profession were baffled. In such olden times, a medic who gave an unwanted diagnosis was effectively prevented from further diagnosing. The supply of doctors was running low, but the king still ailed. A very wise man from a distant, more civilized, country examined the old king and told him bluntly that there was no medicine that would cure him. The only thing that promised the return of health was, that he would wear a happy man's shirt.

The king was elated and gave the foreigner a reward. He called in his courtiers and messengers and briefed them on the work to be done. They went north and south, east and west and returned at sundown with no success. A fresh corps of solicitors went forth the next day and returned at sundown with a like report. The king waxed wroth. He sputtered and spat; he vowed that he would show his cock-eyed kingdom that any half-wit could find a dozen happy men in a day and could get at least one shirt from every one.

Accordingly, on the morrow, he ate a hearty breakfast, burped a little, then strode forth, astride his darling donkey, sure to accomplish his deed of derring-do. At whatever home or hamlet where he stopped, a crowd would quickly gather to get a message from their king. But the crowd disappeared as quickly when they found that he was looking for a happy man. There was no happy man, for his efficient tax-gatherers had been there lately. As the sun was getting low and the donkey's legs were getting wobbly, he came upon a jolly beggar who was clapping his hands and singing a little song without a tune. He appeared to be happy, so the king asked a few questions, and then said: "You are the happy man I have been looking for. I want to buy your shirt," and pulled a handful of silver from his pocket.

The fellow burst into laughter. "My dear king, I do not have a shirt!"

Civic Pride and Civic Duty

By RUFUS L. PORTER

There are many things at which we can point with pride in the Pikes Peak Region. The greatest of these have been here for ages, were furnished by nature and are ours because farsighted individuals long ago saw the advantage of establishing communities in the area. Our scenery is unsurpassed and we are right in taking pride in it.

But there are also many man-made improvements we can be proud of. The many beautiful churches that grace the region, the Fine Arts Center; the handsome banks, hotels and other business buildings. The two excellent towns and all the clean and prosperous suburbs, the man-made drives to the summits of two of our mountains. Spencer Penrose and associates were responsible for both of these. The road up Pikes Peak was built in a national forest on a 25-year lease, after which it reverted back to the federal government.

When the 25 years were up, the government wanted no part of it and was willing to let the private enterprisers, who had built it, keep operating it. I do know the builders were willing to continue the operation. But the socialist-minded in our midst set up a howl because the road was a good-paying prosposition and profit to the builders was a crime. So the State of Colorado took over and ran the road a year or two at a loss. Then the City of Colorado Springs took it over.

The men who built the road in the first place were capable of building whatever new facilities were needed at the summit or along the way, and would have any time it appeared that they might prove to be profitable — the only reason for any enterprise. I believe they would have built a fine new summit house long before now and without all the hulla-ba-loo that was raised about the one presently going up.

But we can still point with pride to the Pikes Peak Highway because it was built by free and private enterprise. We take a dimmer view of city buildings and city parks, beautiful though they may be, and although many take great pride in them. They were built by the taxpayers, many of whom could ill afford such luxuries and many also never use them. A part of the beauty of any man-made object is the knowledge that it was produced by men operating freely in a free market and not by coercion at the point of a tax gun.

As for civic duty, I have never seen a proper definition of the term. To those in power over the rest of us, it means a willingness to pay our taxes when due, or ahead of time, and not to gripe whenever they see fit to up the levy for some new service or improvement they have dreamed up for us that we were too dumb to know we needed. Whatever they are, these new services or improvements cause our taxes to increase and add power to the politicians' hold over us. I believe it is our civic duty, if we have one, to try to prevent the growth of political power and expense.

Aside from this, I believe man's civic duty consists in being able to look after himself, his family and his property without let or hindrance — and to take pride in doing so. And the happier he is to accept these civic duties and responsibilities, and the harder he works at them, the greater will be his civic pride in the community whose beauty and growth he is doing his share to enhance.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question No. 472: "You contend that the statement in the Declaration of Independence, 'Governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed,' means government with the consent of the individual. Is there any historical support of this contention? Did any of the Founding Fathers or their contemporaries take the view of the Gazette Telegraph that government should be supported voluntarily?"

Answer: We believe there is historical support for our contention. Englishmen and the colonists had been giving a great deal of thought to the proper role of government for quite some time.

One of many who were studying this was John Locke, who seems to have been divided on the question. He held that the individual cannot be compelled to come out of a state of nature without his consent. On the other hand he argues that "when any number of men have, by the consent of EVERY individual, made a community, the whole shall act by the will and determination of the majority." Even here, Locke first required consent of every individual to enter the "community," which then would abide by majority decisions.

William Pitt, the Earl of Chatham, further demonstrated the thinking of the day in a speech before the English House of Lords Jan. 20, 1775. He was discussing the removal of troops from Boston, and the American colonists' resistance to taxation:

"The spirit which now resists your taxation in America is the same which formerly opposed loans, benevolences, and ship-money in England; the same spirit which called all England 'on its legs,' and by the Bill of Rights vindicated the English Constitution; the same spirit which establish the great fundamental essential maxim of your liberties, that no subject of England shall be taxed but by his own consent."

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

Wit and Whimsy

Among things that folks grow in their gardens are pears, radishes, beans, tomatoes — and very, very tired.

Mrs. Green (at her first football game): "Oh, isn't it awful? Why, they will kill that poor boy underneath."

Daughter: "Don't be silly, mother! He doesn't mind it; he's unconscious by this time."

Jane: "A half back."

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D. Ph.D.

Bill Scott is the most unique political candidate in either the Democratic or Republican parties, as I am sure you will agree when you read this case. He is the type of candidate who is out best bet to make Khrushchev eat crow! We need more Bill Scotts in both political parties!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE S-432: Bill Scott, aged 17, was a track star.

He ran the half mile for South Shore High School in Chicago.

Bill was George's ideal.

And if George had not crashed to his death when his jet plane was struck from the rear at the Glen View Naval Air Show, George would now be a stellar campaigner for Bill Scott.

Mrs. Crane and I had attended the track meet that afternoon 21 years ago. George introduced us to Bill.

We haven't seen Bill since.

But we feel that Bill should be the model for ALL Democratic and Republican political candidates nowadays. Why?

Well, Bill was the dark horse candidate for Treasurer of our State of Illinois in 1962.

And he then shocked everybody during his first year in office. But it was a very delightful shock!

For Bill Scott REDUCED the entire costs of his department by over 10 per cent within the first year he was at Springfield.

* * *

And if you think that isn't phenomenal in this modern age of rising taxes and MORE governmental employees being constantly added to the breaking backs of us taxpayers, please cite me ANY other candidate of either party who has actually cut costs by even 5 per cent.

Bill Scott is running for governor of Illinois.

And he is pledging that if elected, he will likewise cut the costs of the entire State of Illinois by 10 per cent the very first year he is in the governor's chair.

His past record proves that he means business!

That's very frightening in Illinois — but only to the many unnecessary job holders and inefficient departments of our state government!

What makes Bill Scott so unique is not his promise to cut costs, for almost all candidates do that as typical campaign malarky.

But Bill Scott really scares those who hope to get handouts from the taxpayers.

For they know he has already cut costs of one department of our state government by over 10 per cent, so he could very well spread that wholesome economy to ALL the other departments.

If our son George were alive today, I know he'd be a fervent campaigner for Bill Scott.

For George was frugal with his own Marine Air Corps pay checks and believed in sound economy by government, too.

All of us American taxpayers should encourage candidates, whether Democratic or Republican, who resolutely prove that they mean business when they say they will prune off the many unnecessary expenses of local, state and federal government.

For bankruptcy plays right into the hands of socialism, and that's why Khrushchev promised he'd have our grandchildren living under Communism.

"The power to tax," said Chief Justice John Marshall, "is the power to destroy."

So vote for candidates who will actually REDUCE taxes! That's how to make Khrushchev eat crow!

Sicilian Princess Paterno Dies at 83

LEGNANO, Italy (AP)—Princess Angelina Autero Paterno, 83, a member of one of Sicily's noble families, died Monday night at a Carmelite convent where she had lived 39 years as Sister Maria.

She and her husband, Prince Paterno, entered religious orders in 1925. He died during World War II in a Barnabite monastery.

'Soft Approach' Used by Rocky In Michigan Bid

By GENE SCHROEDER

DETROIT (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, in a 10-hour visit to Michigan, took a hard look at the Democratic administration's foreign policy Monday but used a soft approach in his bid for support for the Republican presidential nomination.

Rockefeller met behind closed doors with Michigan GOP party leaders and Gov. George W. Romney. He said he made no attempt to line up first-ballot votes from Michigan's 48-member delegation to the Republican National Convention next July.

"Your governor has asked for an unpledged delegation, and I have honored the request—as I have in other states," Rockefeller told a Detroit Press Club audience.

The New York governor's soft-sell strategy contrasted with that of Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater who, in a visit to Detroit last month, claimed he would get the support of as many as 18 Michigan delegates on the first ballot.

Rockefeller and Romney said they did not discuss the possibility of either throwing his support behind the other at the GOP convention.

In his press club speech, Rockefeller blasted what he said were "dismal and tragic failures" of the Democratic administration's foreign policy under President Johnson and the late John F. Kennedy.

He accused the Democrats of "global ineptitude" and failure to anticipate Communist moves and act decisively in crises.

In answer to audience questions during a television appearance, Rockefeller said that if elected he would "leave no stone unturned" to assure passage of a civil rights law if the present measure fails in Congress this year.

He said a good showing by Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace in Wisconsin's presidential primary today would "show that the radical right is not only in the Republican party."

Commercial TV Is Accused of 'Numbers Game'

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Commercial television is often accused of playing a "numbers game" with its reliance on ratings when it comes to keeping or killing shows. It seems that a large segment of the viewing audience quietly plays a little numbers game of its own.

This is a game the major networks and the independent stations alike deplore. In spite of all the promotion designed to establish a station or network identity—the CBS eye, the NBC peacock, the call letters flashed on the screens at every station-break time—a large percentage of the audience persists in identifying a station merely by its channel number on the dial.

A television chain recently confirmed this through an audience research project. Almost any viewer could have predicted the outcome of the study.

This is distressing to the industry for several reasons. Individual stations and networks work hard to establish attractive images in the minds of viewers. One New York station always announces its call letters and adds "your community-minded station." Others are "station of the stars," "The news-minded station" and so on.

The networks are particularly eager to create vivid and pleasing identities. A viewer who isn't exactly sure where his favorite show can be seen is likely to sample shows on all working channels in his hunt for it. Sometimes he likes what he samples—and never reaches the program he set out to find.

The series about psychiatry—NBC's "11th Hour" and ABC's "Breaking point" — failed to carry the kind of impact that made "Dr. Kildare" and "Ben Casey" big hits, so both will disappear at this season's end. In fact, the medical show fad is waning — not a single new doctor - show is on the horizon and next season will find that "The Nurses" and Dr. Kildare are having more adventures away from the hospital rooms and corridors.

In all the fuss about the Ed Sullivan show and "What's My Line?" reaching their mid-teens, everybody forgot about an even older one: "Queen for a Day," now on ABC. It will start its 20th year late this month. First on radio and more than 16 years ago, moved to television.

CASKET CRASH

ONTARIO, Calif. (UPI) — A trucq load of empty caskets scattered 200 feet along a railroad right-of-way added a grim note Wednesday to the death of a truck driver hit by a passenger train.

Ray Harnandez Borquez, who was to have celebrated his 46th birthday Wednesday, was killed when the Union Pacific "City of St. Louis" hit his truck at a speed of 72 miles an hour. His load of empty caskets were strewn and splintered up and down the tracks.

Wall Street Report

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite some sharp profit taking in airlines and cigarette issues, the stock market remained irregularly higher early this afternoon. Trading was fairly active.

Gains and losses of most key stocks went from fractions to a point or so.

The market had risen for the past four sessions, making another string of new highs, and brokers said some selling was to be expected.

Coppers seemed well over their scare of Friday on a threatened takeover of copper mines in Chile and these issues moved ahead.

Motors were irregular. The major steelmakers had an unevenly higher edge.

Selective strength was shown by rails. Utilities were higher on balance.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .5 at 304.6 with industrials up .7, rails up .2 and utilities up .3.

Some of the big gains by airlines were skimmed as United Airlines lost a couple of points. Down around a point were Pan American, Eastern and American.

IBM spurted more than 4 points to a new recovery peak of 601½ as the company introduced its new series of computers, an event which has been long anticipated in Wall Street. Control Data rose about a point, Sperry Rand was firm and Radio Corp. was unchanged.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange.

Soviets Plan New Voyages Into Space

MOSCOW (AP)—Yuri Gagarin said today he and other cosmonauts are training for new voyages into space.

The Soviet news agency Tass announced Soviet scientists have made important experiments with a new type of air for spaceships.

The news conference was called in connection with the "day of the cosmonauts"—April 12—the third anniversary of the historic flight of Gagarin, the first man to orbit the earth.

Soviet space scientists also were on hand but they were mum.

Tass said that nitrogen was taken out of the air and replaced by helium. Normally, nitrogen constitutes 78 per cent of the air a person breaths.

The new mixture has been tested, Tass said, on men who remained in pressure cabins for periods from 10 to 25 days.

Tass reported the helium produced a surprising result, that "a man with a bass voice began to speak tenor."

Wintry Storm Tapers Off in Rockies Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A wintry storm tapered off in the northern Plains and Rockies today after dropping 16-18 inches of snow in Montana but more rain splashed areas in the South and flood warnings were posted in parts of Alabama and Georgia.

As the snowstorm ended, colder air from Canada spread into northern border areas and headed into the central part of the nation. Heaviest snow was in Montana, between Helena and Great Falls. Strong winds caused much drifting and drifts up to seven feet were reported in central and northern Montana.

More than a foot of snow fell in mountain areas of Wyoming. Snow and snow mixed with rain spread across areas of the Dakotas, Minnesota, Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado and northeast New Mexico.

Rain and showers hit the eastern Gulf states, much of the Atlantic states and in parts of Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana and lower Michigan. Heaviest amounts were in the north Atlantic coastal areas.

Torrential rains drenched areas in Alabama and Georgia, sending some rivers out of their banks. Twenty-nine families were forced from their homes by the flooding of the Chattahoochee River in Cobb County, Ga. Alabama National Guardsmen were on a standby basis to help with evacuation of flood victims. Flash flooding was reported in Atlanta, Ga., and Montgomery, Ala.

Parents Demand $53,717 for Death of Girls

DENVER (UPI)—The parents of two teen-age girls killed when the car in which they were riding plunged off a Valley Highway overpass last year, filed a $53,717 wrongful death suit against the driver of the car Monday.

The suit was filed on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Fidel Roybal against Dennis Vigil, 21. Vigil received probation from Superior Court Judge Paul V. Hodges after being charged with reckless driving by Dist. Atty. Bert M. Keating.

Vigil's record showed 12 previous traffic violations and his license had been suspended twice before the July 23, 1963, accident which killed Delores, 19, and Velma Jean Roybal, 17.

How wise investors choose stocks & bonds

You may find, when you finish reading these examples of wise and unwise investing, that you're one of the wise. Or maybe not. Let's see:

Unwise: You race to buy at the drop of a tip.
Wise: You look behind the tip for facts—and often find only rumor. For you, facts are what count. You've heard that many an investor has found trouble because he accepted a rumor at face value.

Unwise: You let your hopes run away with your judgment.
Wise: You have in mind, perhaps, building a second income from dividends. Or giving your money a chance to grow with American business. But you know that stocks, like other property, can tumble in price as well as climb. That some companies may make no profit, pay no dividends. So with your broker's help you check a company's earnings and dividends and try to decide what its prospects are. And you consider bonds for your particular situation.

Unwise: You invest all the cash you can scrape together.
Wise: You make certain you can pay your living expenses regularly. That emergencies are provided for. Because you know that funds for investing should not be drawn from money required for necessities. You may, in fact, be using the Monthly Investment Plan to acquire stock by investing with as little as $40 every three months ($3.08 a week).

Unwise: You don't bother to seek knowledgeable advice.
Wise: You proceed with care. You know, for example, that a broker in a Member Firm of the New York Stock Exchange is required to meet Exchange requirements when he becomes a Registered Representative. And that, while Member Firms differ in many ways, they are all subject to the guiding rules of the Exchange. Their judgment is not infallible, of course—no one's is. But they can give you important help as you make your decisions with your goals in mind.

Unwise: You feel you can't benefit from reading booklets like "INVESTMENT FACTS."
Wise: You will read with pleasure this useful booklet which gives the records of more than 400 common stocks that have paid a cash dividend every three months for 20 years or more. Plus much additional helpful information. Wouldn't you be wise to send for your free copy now?

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Perennial Globe Trotter!

DEAR ABBY: My husband announced last November that he needed a rest, so he went to New York to visit his sister. After being gone two months, he sent me a post card from Paris saying he got the "urge" to go abroad. I have been getting his post cards from all over Europe with no word of how to contact him. What if I or one of the children should become seriously ill or die? Our children are away at boarding school, thank heavens, so they are spared the humiliation. I feel like a fool when people ask me where my husband is. He obviously cares nothing for me or he never could have done such a thing. I am well provided for, but money isn't everything. We've been married 19 years and I am seriously considering asking my lawyer to file for a divorce. What would you do in my place? —HEARTBROKEN

DEAR HEARTBROKEN: I'd get in touch with my lawyer immediately and attempt to locate my globe-trotting husband. He could be sick—or just sick of you. In any case, it's time he got home. Do nothing about a divorce at this distance.

DEAR ABBY: I believe that my mother-in-law is one in a million. Judging from most of your letters about mothers-in-law, I am lucky. We get along wonderful and even think and do things alike. When I wanted to dry out a cowhide, she helped me take it up and nail it to my garage roof, salt it down and trim it off. Now I ask you, how many mothers-in-law would go through that for a daughter-in-law? Sincerely, —MRS. C.G., NORTH FORT MYERS, FLORIDA

DEAR MRS. C.G.: Not very danged many!

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and my problem is my parents. I met a very nice boy who is 17. He is a sharp kid and a real neat dresser. My parents met him and decided they didn't like him because his pants were too tight. Now they won't let me go out with him for that reason. He keeps calling and asking to see me, and I keep making up excuses. I can't tell him my parents are square, can I? —HIGHLAND PARK

DEAR HIGHLAND: Tell the boy that your parents want you to see more of more boys and less of just one. Tight pants won't be the vogue forever.

Today's hand produced a swing of astronomical proportions when it was encountered in an important team of four match recently.

At both tables, the bidding started off in identical fashion with South making a jump shift response of two spades. Observe that the hand is worth 20 points counting high cards and distribution and, with two fine suits, it certainly warrants issuing a slam invitation. One South chose to rebid his spade suit, however, on the second round—suppressing the hearts—and, when North offered a delayed raise, he proceeded directly to six spades.

A heart was opened by West and, after South learned of the unfavorable trump break, he was unable to avoid the loss of a trick in spades as well as one diamond. East and West scored a one hundred point profit on the deal.

At the other table, their teammates arrived at an ambitious grand slam contract in hearts with the North - South cards. When South's rebid of three hearts received a raise, the latter decided to check for aces. North's response accounted for every missing control and South proceeded resolutely to seven hearts, choosing to adopt an optimistic attitude concerning the disposal of his small diamond.

The trump opening was taken in the closed hand. A club was led to the ace and the deuce of clubs trumped with the queen of hearts. Dummy was reentered with a trump so that South might ruff out the last club. A diamond to North's ace permitted the latter to draw East's last heart as South discarded the ten of diamonds.

Declarer now proceeded to establish his long spade by cashing the top honors and then ruffing out West's jack. The last two tricks were taken by South's king of diamonds and the ten of spades. The 2,210 point profit registered by declarer added to the 100 points, which his teammates had chalked up at the other table, was more than enough to decide the fate of the match.

Here's a homey dish to set before your family. Golden brown slices of liver are simmered with a medley of vegetables. There is a definite place for liver in the diet, and homemakers concerned with their family's health serve this variety meat often.

* * *

Liver 'Chuckwagon' Style

For example, here's a tempting variation for preparing beef or pork liver. It's served "Chuckwagon" style. Slices of golden brown liver are topped with a combination of vegetables, then slowly braised.

Of course, liver is noted as one of our best sources of iron, a good insurance against that tired, listless feeling.

Braised Liver-Chuckwagon Style

1½ pounds liver, sliced ½ inch thick
¼ cup flour
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
2 cups thinly sliced carrots
1 cup diced onion
1 medium green pepper, diced
Salt
Pepper
¼ cup water

Cut liver into serving size pieces. Combine flour, 1½ teaspoons salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Dredge liver in seasoned flour. Brown in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Arrange vegetables on browned liver. Season vegetables with salt and pepper. Add water. Cover tightly and cook slowly 35 to 40 minutes or until done. 6 servings.

The Mature Parent

Can Boy, 3, Be Helpful?

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENC
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs Lawrence: At what age should a child be made to put his toys away? I feel that my nephew, 3, is old enough to start learning to put his away in his toy box when he is finished playing instead of leaving them all over the floor for his mother to pick up. She is expecting another child and should not have to do so much stooping. But the boy has so many playthings she has no time for anything but picking up after him.

ANSWER: We can ask a small child to help us put his toys away if we are willing to be appreciative of his help — and to put most of the toys away ourselves.

We owe him appreciation because he is doing us a favor. He has no reason whatever to care about putting his toys away except his pleasure in our appreciation. For tomorrow does not exist for him. So the toys he has finished playing with have lost all importance and interest for him. He can feel no concern for their care because he cannot entertain the notion of their usefulness tomorrow.

This is the notion which impels you and me to care for our possessions, to garage our cars, put roasts in the refrigerator, invest money, send clothes to the cleaner and otherwise preserve our property.

Because the little child hasn't experienced the arrival of enough tomorrows for them to be real to him, he is just being nice to us when he helps us pick up his toys. He is indulging our grown - up awareness that he will use them again tomorrow.

So far as he is concerned, his toys, like galoshes, chocolate pudding and soap in the bathtub, are always magically appearing and disappearing. Where they come from or where they go to couldn't be a matter of less consequence to him.

If we grownups can properly appreciate his kindness in helping us put away his blocks, old spoons and pot lids, teaching him care of his property can become a pleasure instead of an ordeal of resentful dissatisfaction with him.

Incidentally, it is generally considered wise to limit the number of toys a child plays with at one time.

The experts advise this in order to protect the little boy or girl against the "confusion" they feel when too many toys make too many demands on their attention. They forget to tell us that the fewer toys we make available to him, the fewer have to be stooped for, picked up and put away.

HINTS FROM Heloise

HINTS FROM HELOISE
By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Folks:

Mr. Frank G. Orr has written to us from one of the biggest stainless steel manufacturers with some tips for women who use stainless steel pots and pans and who are unfortunate enough to burn one, once in a while.

Some of the ideas will surprise you. They did me when I saw that vinegar, alcohol, baking soda and turpentine were in his vocabulary!

Mr. Orr says:

"On a highly polished, lustrous surface such as a pan lid, a metal pad is likely to mar the finish and should not be used. Gritty, hard abrasives will mar a stainless finish and are not recommended.

Always rinse your stainless in hot water and dry with a soft cloth. This means residual minerals in the water won't dry on the utensil and leave water-marks.

Detergents will help you avoid the film that soap sometimes leaves on stainless. This is especially true if you have hard water and no water softener.

Foods that burn and stick on other metals can discolor stainless, too. But with a stainless steel unit you can remove discolorations by applying a mildly abrasive cleanser. To soften an extremely heavy layer of burnt-on grease, cover the layer with an ammonia-soaked cloth for 10 to 15 minutes. You might also use a plastic or stainless steel sponge.

When hard water evaporates in a unit or utensil, it often leaves a mineral deposit. To remove this, swab or cover the bottom of the unit with a water solution containing vinegar (about 25 per cent by volume). Follow with cleansing powder, then wash, rinse and dry.

For more difficult applications, you may use any of the following: (1) ammonia in water, (2) detergent in water, or (3) special solvents such as alcohol, baking soda, vinegar or turpentine. Follow these with a thorough washing with detergent and hot water, then rinse and dry with a soft, clean cloth.

For a high polish, apply a mild abrasive cleanser and rub in the direction of the polish lines to preserve the original finish." —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

My husband has another use for your famous vinegar which he wants to pass along to your readers, or their husbands.

He uses vinegar to clean his hands after working with cement and mortar. He uses it straight from the bottle without any soap and it does wonders in removing the hardened concrete or cement. Also leaves his hands soft. After using the vinegar he just rinses his hands in water. —Mrs. D. Anderson

What price vinegar? I love it, love it, love it . . . —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I use my electric fry pan to warm several left-overs at the same time. For instance, I just put a few drops of water on a piece of foil, wrap up my biscuits and heat them in my fry pan. It makes them fresh again.

I put a small amount of milk on a piece of foil and wrap up some mashed potatoes.

Meat loaf, or other meats or vegetables, may be wrapped in foil and heated the same way. ANY left-overs may be heated this way. It is far better than warming them up in separate pans and saves a lot of dishwashing. —Viola Webster

Dear Heloise:

Since my baby has been off his formula I have been using his large pitcher-sized measuring cup to measure large amounts of flour when I bake. No more wondering "Did I add three or four cups of flour?" —Mrs. Robert Frick

NOW IT'S BEATLEBURGERS!—Serve a Beatleized version of the 'burger. It's a new taste sensation with canned corned beef added to ground beef and garnished to resemble the famous teens with their mad, mad music.

Beatlemania Has Created Its Own Beatleburgers

"Yeah - Yeah - Yeah - hold my hand" — is the first line of the mad, mad music made by the Beatles. Now this newest teen craze has even resulted in a Beatleized version of that perennial adolescent favorite — the hamburger.

The kitchen of the R. T. French Co. has pulled out the culinary stops creating Beatleburgers — a new burger sensation that may prove to be even more enduring than the British boys with the bowl-cut hair dos. This different 'burger has a can of corned beef added to ground beef for real keen flavor. When serving you can even add the Beatle look, by adding a sprig of curly endive for bangs. And, to simulate their proper ties, add tiny pickles. The eyes and nose are cut pieces of radish or carrot.

For down-to-earth foods to go with the Beatleburgers, there's nothing so good as a potato casserole and salad. Try potatoes au gratin with sliced tomatoes simmering on top. Made from packaged potatoes au gratis they're a cinch to prepare. And the salad is cool — real cool and healthy with mixed greens and crisp green vegetables tossed with Ringo salad dressing. The special envelope of sour cream sauce mix gives this dressing body and a wonderful flavor - year - year-yeah.

BEATLEBURGERS

1 can (12-oz.) corned beef
2 pounds ground beef
¼ cup water
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon black pepper
1 tablespoon shortening
12 hamburger buns, split, toasted
Face decorations, radish, curly endive
12 small sweet pickles
French's Prepared Mustard
Dill pickles
Fresh onion rings

Chill corned beef in can. Remove, chop very fine. Mix together with the ground beef, water, salt and pepper. Form into 12 patties about 4 inches in diameter. Heat shortening in a large skillet. Brown patties lightly on both sides in the hot shortening. Cook over low heat. Takes about 10 minutes. Place a Beatleburger on a toasted bun half. Fashion a face from pieces of cut radish. Use curly endive for hair. Attach with a wooden pick a sweet pickle tie. For eating add mustard, dill pickle, onion rings, and bun top. 12 servings.

Remove from oven. Cut each tomato into 4 slices. Arrange over top of potatoes. Dot with remaining butter. Sprinkle tomato slices with minced green onion. Return to oven to finish cooking, about 10 minutes. 6 servings.

NOISE, LITTER UNPOPULAR

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a poll conducted by the U.S. Travel Service, overseas visitors to the United States listed the noise and litter of American cities when asked what they disliked most about the United States. Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges revealed this information at the recent national conference of Keep America Beautiful, with the admonition: "If we're going to have company in, we've got to keep the place tidy."

Danger of High Tide Floods Seen in Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—The threat of flood damage during high tides in coastal areas faces Alaska as action is hastened to raise $100 million to help the earthquake - ravaged state.

The high tides, expected April 14-15, are said to pose a threat to businessses, tourist resorts, port installations and other facilities mostly in the Seldovia-to-Homer area on the Kenai Peninsula, and possibly at Valdez and Seward.

In Juneau, meanwhile, the Alaska Legislature completed action Sunday authorizing a $50 million bond issue as the state's share of restoring the battered economy.

The Army Corps of Engineers said it is investigating indications the earthquake caused land to sink in some low coastal areas, leading to possible flood during extreme high tides.

Col Byron Kirkpatrick, Deputy Alaska district engineer, said land may have fallen at Valdez, Homer, Seward, Kodiak and Anchorage.

The State Civil Defense organization was checking unconfirmed reports 10 victims of the earthquake might be buried in wreckage at Whittier, a railport southeast of Anchorage.

The latests Civil Defense report on the quake's toll listed 117 casualties, with 39 known dead and 78 missing or presumed dead.

PRESERVED WOOD

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Workmen digging the foundation for a town building came up with some pieces of perfectly preserved wood believed to be between 10 and 30 million years old.

They were unearthed when a construction rig drilling holes for the foundation bored into the marl, a putty-like, grayish-blue clay, about 65 feet down.

$1,000 Damage In Two-Car Crash

A two-car accident at the intersection of El Paso Street and Pikes Peak Avenue early Sunday morning resulted in $1,000 damage, police reported.

Lester James Moore, 61, of Denver was ticketed for a stop sign violation and the driver of the other car, Orvis Nicholson, 39, of 702 E. Kiowa St., received a summons for speeding.

The Moore car was going south on El Paso and the Nicholson car was traveling east on Pikes Peak at the time of the collision. Police estimated there was $500 damage to each car.

Malaysia Seeks Moral Support From Washington

By The Associated Press

Unlike South Viet Nam, Malaysia doesn't need more money nor more guns at present. What these former British colonies—Singapore, Sarawak and North Borneo—seem to need at the moment is stronger moral support from Washington.

Some experts believe all-out war could be sparked sooner in the jungles of Borneo than in the rice paddies of South Viet Nam. That may be part of the reason President Johnson sent Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy to Asia in January.

British troops already are defending North Borneo from Indonesian forces, regulars and guerrillas. Should it become necessary for Malaysia to call upon Australia and New Zealand for help, and should a shooting war develop, the United States could become entangled.

The Anzus Pact, signed between Australia, New Zealand and the United States after World War II, could propel America into a full scale war against Indonesia, some fear. The brother of the late President John F. Kennedy was able to effect a cease-fire in Borneo and lay the groundwork for a conference involving Indonesia, Malaysia and the Philippines.

But the conference couldn't agree on continuing the cease-fire. Indonesian troops already were across the line and Indonesian Foreign Minister Subandrio refused to pull them back.

The area is rich in natural resources and promises much if the free world can preserve this toddler among nations long enough to get its economy going. But the collapse of the Borneo truce and the peace talks have disenchanted Malaysia government leaders in Kuala Lumpur with the United States.

U.S. diplomats in Kuala Lumpur are reluctant to discuss their government's role in the Malaysia crisis, which they insist began and ended with Kennedy's mission. The Malaysians feel it hasn't ended yet, and should extend to an open warning to President Sukarno of Indonesia.

In the Indonesian capital of Jakarta, where they burned the British Embassy but haven't yet put the torch to American property, the American ambassador feels the United States is doing as well as can be expected.

"We have our ups and downs," Howard P. Jones said recently, "but in terms of the over-all U.S. position in this country, I find there has been no major shift in our welcome here.

"The Malaysia issue is a cloud over the horizon, but if a peaceable settlement is reached and obviously in the interest of all countries concerned why there is every reason to assume that the U.S. position here will continue to be one of mutual cooperation with the Indonesian government."

Jones, a consistent advocate of Western aid to Indonesia, said the United States would commit a "gross mistake" should it abandon Indonesia's 100 million people.

Indonesian Communist party agitation against the United States has never declined. President Sukarno has denounced the United States several times, but Jones feels the United States has not lost ground in Indonesia.

The unhappiness in Cambodia is disconcerting. The U.S. Embassy was plundered and the American flag torn from its staff recently, petulant antics which pleased Prince Norodom Sihanouk's countrymen. Sihanouk seems determined to prove his hate for America is sincere.

He has been telling six million Cambodians that Americans had no right to end their aid program when he told them to end it.

This kind of instability led to the burning of the embassy and may lead to an alliance between Peking and Phnom Penh unless neutrality of some kind can be reached.

The trouble is that the kind of neutrality France, China's new friend in Asia, suggests and Peking accepts are not the same.

President Charles de Gaulle is suggesting that Viet Nam, Cambodia and Laos, all former French colonies known once as Indochina, get together and form a neutral existence. That's fine with China, so long as all the neutrals are Communists.

The two million inhabitants of Laos have been living under a neutrality system for nearly two years, but Prince Souvanna Phouma, their premier, has been unable to impress the Pathet Lao with the meaning of the word neutral.

As for Burma, they won't let any foreigner into Burma for more than 24 hours while Prime Minister Ne Win tries to control the six or eight leftist elements struggling to sack his government.

That leaves Thailand, and up to now the Thais remain friends of Uncle Sam. Gen. Thanom Kittikachorn took over the government reins in Bangkok last December when Premier Sarit Thanarat died.

The late premier had been America's friend during the five years he ruled, and since his successor was No. 2 man in that government it is expected that the status quo will hold.

All of which leads to a story they tell about U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk. His airplane was approaching an airport and word was received that 50,000 people lined the runway.

"Don't tell me how many," Rusk is reported to have said. "Just let me know what placards they're carrying."

That's the way it goes these days in the Far East.

Two Physicians Arrested in Belgian Strike

By TOM OCHILTREE

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Belgian authorities arrested two physicians today after the death of a baby as Belgium's doctors' strike went into its sixth day.

Workers paraded in Liege protesting that the doctors were failing in their duty to humanity.

The 10,000 striking physicians held fast to their position and claimed they were being victimized financially by changes in Belgium's health insurance system.

In Olen, in northern Belgium, the mayor, who is a physician, and a second doctor were arrested after the death of 18-month-old Eric Moonsseyen.

The two men were charged with failing to help a person in distress.

Police said the child died from a serious lung condition after waiting six hours for medical treatment.

The striking doctors have established emergency arrangements to treat pressing cases but their opponents claim this is not meeting the needs of the country's nine million people.

Nurses in hospitals complained of being swamped with work. The government asked that Red Cross volunteers be assigned to help hospital personnel.

Careless Adults, Children Cause Fires in City

It's difficult to say who was worse when it came to playing with fire in 1963 — children or adults.

Careless adults caused a total of 85 fire alarms to be turned in in the city last year, and all because of careless smoking, Fire Chief Fred A. Lausch said.

Children, playing with matches or fire, caused a total of 70 alarms to be turned in.

The careless smoking alarms were exceeded only by grass and trash fires. Fireman answered 88 alarms for this reason.

Lausch said there was a total of 88 false alarms turned in; flooded carburetors, gasoline leaks and backfire in cars resulted in 65 alarms; sparks from incinerators, ashpits, burning trash and trains resulted in 37 alarms; burning in barrels or unimproved incinerators, 35 alarms, and short circuit in car wiring caused 15.

Electrical appliances, TV cords, etc., 19; electrical motors overheated, 24; utility wires down or in trees, 16; combustables too close to heat, 15; food or grease in or on stove or ducts, 24; undetermined causes, 45; arson, 3; and lightning, 5.

Boat Fees Adopted by Game and Fish

The Colorado Game, Fish & Parks Commission at its April 3 meeting adopted regulations creating motorboat use permits at 13 state recreation areas and one state park.

The commission designated the "use fee" areas as follows: Cherry Creek Reservoir, Crawford Reservoir, Paonia Reservoir, Sweitzer Lake Reservoir, Ramah Reservoir, Williams Fork Reservoir, Willow Creek Reservoir, Lathrop State Park Reservoir, Vega Reservoir, Antero Reservoir, Eleven Mile Reservoir, Lester Creek Lake, Green Mountain Reservoir, and Bonny Reservoir.

Use fees for motorboats of 10 horsepower and over will be $10. Boats in this size class can mount an additional motor of less than 10 horsepower for trolling purposes at no additional charge. The use fee for motorboats under 10 horsepower is $5.

Outboard motor manufacturers "horsepower ratings" will be used as a base to determine the use fee.

The Game, Fish & Parks Department will issue permits in the form of stickers to be affixed on each side of the foreward half of the boat. Stickers must be positioned where they are readily observed and identified.

Permits, which are good for the calendar year, will be available at Game, Fish & Parks Department license agencies, only — not at reservoir sites.

The regulation becomes effective June 1, 1964.

Carl Welsh, game and fish manager for Southeastern Colorado, announced Friday that the Colorado Game, Fish & Parks Commission approved a bid from Guinn Gross, Redwing, for "clean-up" on the department's Huerfano River Management Area.

The premises will be cleaned and refuse removed weekly for an amount of $45.85 per month. The contract is in effect from May, 1964 to April 30, 1965 for a total of $550.

Gross' bid was the only one submitted to the commission.

County PTA Head Resigns for Health Reasons

Mrs. Fletcher Rainer Jr. resigned unexpectedly Monday as president of the El Paso County PTA.

Mrs. Rainer said her resignation had nothing to do with the current conflict in the state PTA over alleged "muzzling" of members and the proposed national program.

Also handing in his resignation was M. E. Birchenall, chairman of the legislative committee for the council which handled the local presentation of the national program and policies.

Birchenall said he resigned because of press of duties and his desire to acquire a masters degree. He is a teacher in District 11.

Mrs. Rainer, who was reelected for a second term in March, said she was forced to resign because of health reasons.

"I haven't been feeling well for the past few months and the pressures of PTA duties are too much," she said.

She said she was definitely "sold" on the PTA idea and would continue to support the program but not as an elected official.

Her successor will be nominated by the council's board of managers and the name submitted to the membership for approval.

AFA Group To Visit Sponsoring Unit

Members of the Air Force Academy's 9th Cadet squadron will visit their sponsoring unit, the 9th Aerospace Wing, at Mountain Home AFB, Idaho April 16-19.

Such trips are designed to further cadet professional development through observation of activities and operation of typical operational units and through contact and communication with Air Force personnel to develop interest on their part in the Academy and its mission.

Under the cadet squadron sponsorship program, operational Air Force units "adopt" cadet organizations. Sponsor's colors are carried at all military functions and exchange visits are scheduled between the two units.

Mythical Moon Trips Traced In Unusual AFA Collection

Mythical trips to the moon dating back to 135 A.D. are traced through an unusual display of books and prints at the Air Force Academy Library. This is open to the public.

Col. Gimble, member of the prominent family of Philadelphia retail merchandisers, expanded his collection during World War II when he was a member of the 8th Air Force general staff in England.

The collection now contains more than 50,000 items covering the 5,000-year history of aeronautics. Material dates from Babylonian days to the Wright Brothers first flight in 1903.

The part of the Gimble display at the Academy deals with man's dreams and aspirations to reach the moon. The theme coincides with the 1964 Academy Assembly discussion of "Outer Space."

A book printed in 1615 shows the earliest history of moon voyages as imagined by the Roman satirist Lucian who between 145 and 150 A.D. wrote about being carried to the moon by a crew of 50 men. The trip, in a sailboat, took seven days.

An illustration from Jules Verne's "From Earth to the Moon," originally published in 1865, depicts a projectile nine feet in diameter and weighing 30,000 pounds which was fired to the moon; total travel time — nine hours and 20 minutes.

John Jacob Astor's little known science fiction novel "A Journey to Other Worlds," written in 1894, describes man's trip to the moon in a device called the "Callisto." It resembled modern satellites and utilized "apergy," a force which supposedly counteracted the pull of gravity. The journey to the moon took 12 days.

H. G. Wells in his "The First Man in the Moon" (1901) relates how he and a scientist traveled to the moon in a metal sphere covered with a material designed to eliminate gravity. Upon their arrival on the moon, the pair discovered man-sized insects and plant life.

American dime novels of the 1890s were also filled with trips to the moon. Illustrations from the novels are part of the display.

AFA Personnel Grieved at Death Of MacArthur

All officers, airmen and cadets of the U. S. Air Force Academy join Americans everywhere in expressions of grief over the passing of Gen. of the Army Douglas MacArthur. On behalf of the academy, Maj. Gen. Robert H. Warren, Superintendent, dispatched the following message to Mrs. MacArthur:

"I have not the words to tell you how deeply members of the U. S. Air Force Academy regret the passing of Gen. MacArthur. The thoughts of the officers, airmen and cadets are with you now as they were with him in his last great battle which he fought so courageously. This nation may never know again a man who brightened the world in so many ways by his examples of leadership, courage and statesmanship. In every way he fulfilled his destiny for greatness through a brilliant record as a scholar, a daring general in three violent wars and in the conversion of a militant nation to democracy. It is our one hope that your great loss may be lessened with the knowledge it is shared by many millions of people everywhere."

Gen. MacArthur exemplified better than probably any other American of his time true military greatness. He endured the best and the worst of this nation's successes and failures through three tragic wars and the uneasy periods of peace which separated them.

No man could have been more dedicated to the principles and ideals that led him through more fearsome trials than most men must endure.

The many legendary achievements of General MacArthur will forever light the way for those of us who follow the military profession.

Meeting Continues

State Board of Control Okays Will Rogers Loop

AURORA—The new Class AAA Will Rogers League became a reality here Monday as the Board of Control of the Colorado School Activities Association tendered its approval during the opening session of its annual spring meeting.

The move automatically elevated four Colorado Springs area schools to AAA classification starting with the 1964-65 school year. Cheyenne Mountain, Widefield, Air Academy High, and Harrison, present members of the Pikes Peak League, will be four of the five teams in the new circuit. Canon City will be the other.

Thus starting next fall, Colorado Springs will have six AAA schools in the vicinity instead of the current two. Palmer and Wasson, members of the South Central League, are the only institutions currently enjoying that status. And in the fall of 1965, the opening of the new Billy Mitchell High School will bring the number of top classification schools here to seven.

Approval of the Will Rogers League was the major action taken by the Board of Control Monday afternoon. Expected today is the approval of the proposed reduction in classifications from five to three and final approval of other league alignments.

The three classification system which will go into effect next fall, will have schools with enrollments of 551 and up in Class AAA, those with 176-550 in AA, and 175 and under in Class A. It is expected that there will be nine AAA leagues, seven in the AA classification, and 16 A circuits.

Several special requests by member schools are also expected to come before the Board today. This includes one by Trinidad requesting a transfer from the South Central League to the Southern League. The Southern circuit, currently AA, is scheduled for elevation to the AAA classification.

However, it has been revealed that Trinidad officials will request that the move not be made until the 1965-66 school year. This would prevent additional problems stemming from the fact that the majority of the South Central and Southern League schools already have their schedules drawn up for the 1964-65 season. South Central League officials are expected to move for approval of the request.

Air Force Harriers Impressive

The Air Force Academy's track team made an impressive showing in the Kentucky Relays this past weekend, taking two record-breaking first places, tying for a first and placing third of 24 schools in the unofficial team standings.

First place finishers were Tom Brandon, who tied Kentucky's track record in the triple jump with 44 feet 2 inches, and Ken Clark who put the shot a new distance of 53 feet 9¼ inches. In the high jump, the Falcons' Bob Lambert tied for first place with a new track record height of 6 feet 6 inches.

"Mercury" Jim Murphy, the Academy's great two-miler, finished behind Bob Schul of Miami, the second-ranking two-miler in the world, who covered the distance in a record breaking time of 8:47.3. It was the first loss for the flashy AFA sophomore from Chicago, Ill.

With an April 11 meeting with Colorado State College and Denver cancelled, the Falcons will have a two-week rest before meeting the University of Miami at Coral Gables, Fla., April 18.

Kansas State Coach Makes Adjustments

Lakewood Cinder Meet Rescheduled for Thursday

Coach Jim Hartman of Wasson High School said this morning that a track meet involving his team which was scheduled for Lakewood this afternoon has been postponed.

The meet, which was to match the Thunderbirds with Lakewood, Alameda, and Wheat Ridge of the Jefferson County League, has tentatively been rescheduled for Thursday at 4 p.m. However, Hartman said Lakewood officials informed him that if the weather is nice Wednesday, the meet will probably be moved up to that day. The Wasson coach said that a Wednesday meet would force his team's withdrawal due to special activities at the local school that day.

If the competition is run Thursday, the T-Birds will be after their third straight small-meet victory. Wasson earlier won a triangular with Palmer and Longmont and last week downed Boulder. Saturday the Thunderbirds finished a close second to East Denver in the Pikes Peak Relays.

Thunderbirds Drop Centennial Nine Despite Arctic-Like Weather, 6-1

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

PUEBLO—If someone questioned Pueblo Centennial's baseball team on the best way to win a South Central League championship, the Bulldogs' first bit of advice would probably go thusly:

Never play Wasson in bad weather!

The Pueblo club picked up its first hint a year ago during a mild hurricane at Wasson's field when the seemingly imperturbable Thunderbirds survived seven inning of Arctic blasts to whip the Bulldogs, 13-5, and seriously damage the Centennial pennant hopes.

Tuesday afternoon in a Pueblo icebox known as Runyon Field the T-Birds provided additional evidence. Behind the brilliant pitching of flamethrowing Bob Kochis and a savage hitting attack, Wasson coasted to a decisive 6-1 triumph that sent Centennial plunging into the SCL's second division and moved the Thunderbirds within a half-game of the conference lead.

The victor left Gib Funk's T-Birds with a 2-1 league record and a 5-1 overall mark heading into this afternoon's scheduled non-conference clash with Thomas Jefferson of Denver at the Wasson diamond. Weather permitting, the contest will get underway at 3:30 p.m.

Regardless of what the weatherman has in store for today, it is doubtful that it could be much more uncomfortable than Tuesday's frigid saga in Pueblo. Plunging temperatures mixed with occasional dashes of moisture converted the Steel City ball park into an eerie setting for a baseball game.

But baseball was played—and the Thunderbirds played it very well. The 12-hit attack that lashed out against Centennial ace, Ross Beatty, and the exceptional performance by Kochis were primary factors in what has to rank as one of the sharpest games ever turned in by a Wasson club.

Kochis, the big gawking right-hander who inherited the role of top starter on the club with the graduation of last spring's fine twosome, has had his problems in earlier starts. Tuesday, however, his fast ball came to life to join an always-potent curve and over seven superb innings he allowed just three singles and no earned runs while sending 10 Bulldogs back to the dugout with their useless lumber for company.

While Kochis was humming his swift stuff past the Centennial batting order, the Wasson offense was turning Beatty's cold stint on the mound into an even more bitter task. The Thunderbird's 12-hit attack included three extra base blows that smacked against the fence in Runyon Field's spacious quarters.

Chief executioner was catcher Hal Meller who drilled three safeties, including a double, and drove in two runs. Kochis was two-for-two, including a two-bagger, and Jim Smith and John Wickham each cracked two hits.

The T-Birds wasted no time in signaling Beatty's doom. Leadoff batter Mike Teague bulleted a long triple off the left field fence to open the contest. After Wickham's well-placed bunt down the thrid-base line went for a hit, with Teague holding third, Meller ripped a double to deep left-center to drive in two runs.

Wasson got another in the third on a pair of hits and upped the margin to 4-0 in the fourth when Kochis banged a lengthy double to left, advanced on Teague's sacrifice, and rode home on Wickham's single over second.

The final two tallies came in the top of the seventh as Meller led off with a single past third and went to second on Smith's rifle-shot to left. With shortstop Scott Eslinger holding the runner close to second, pinchhitter Clay Chambers whipped a ground ball thru the hole driving in Meller and sending Smith to third. The frustrated Beatty, who could see that his fifth straight loss to the T-Birds was imminent, then balked in the sixth run.

Kochis gave up a leadoff single to Bob Armijo in the first inning but worked out of possible danger with a strikeout pitch to Beatty. That was the final hit for Centennial, and the only inning the Bulldogs had two men on base, until the sixth. After Armijo had fanned to lead off that frame, Ralph Huddin and Luther Nava belted two strike pitches for singles. Wayne Woodyard followed with a double-play gounder to Smith who relayed to second but the hard-sliding Nava forced Wasson's John Scales into a wild throw past first and Huddin came across with the run.

Four of the seven innings Kochis retired the Bulldogs in order and in the fourth he worked thru the heart of the order, striking out the side.

The win set up a crucial intracity battle Satuday morning between Wasson and Palmer. The league-leading Terrors (2-0) were to meet Pueblo South this afternoon. A victory in that one will give Palmer a one-game margin heading into Saturday while a defeat would leave the two Colorado Springs's teams in a deadlock for the lead.

Williams-Field Bout Tonight

HOUSTON (AP) — Cleveland Williams tries to protect his World Boxing Association rating against unranked Tommy Fields of Los Angeles tonight in a 10-round heavyweight match.

Williams is an overwhelming favorite. He weighs 217½ pounds to about 192 for Fields and also carries a decided edge in reach.

Williams, also is aware of the importance of this fight. He is in line to fight either Ernie Terrell, Eddie Machen or Floyd Patterson if he gets by Fields.

Mike Wegener To Attend DU

DENVER (AP)—Mike Wegener, highest scoring Colorado high school basketball player this year, will attend the University of Denver under an athletic scholarship.

Wegener, an all-state player at Englewood, collected 483 points in 18 games and another 83 in three tournament contests. He was DU's top prospect.

Kendall New Coach At Academy

Leland Kendall, a former all-Missouri Valley Conference tackle at Oklahoma State, has been named the new offensive line coach at the Air Force Academy. The announcement came Monday from Athletic Director Col. Edmond Rafalko.

Kendal, 32, was line coach at Colgate last year. He played for a couple years with Regina of the Canadian professional league after graduating from Oklahoma State in 1954.

Kendall replaces Charlie Rash on the Air Force state. Rash, an all-conference guard at Missouri University during his playing days, resigned last month to become a coaching assistant at Tenneessee. During his stay at the Academy, Rash developed several fine place kickers—his specialty at Missouri.

The AFA football team started spring practice a week ago Monday and had four days of fine weather before the storm of last weekend halted drills. They are to continue with daily practice, weather permitting, until May 2 when the annual intra-squad game will be held in Falcon Stadium.

IT'S UPSETTING TO ALLEN—Richie Allen, Philadelphia Phillies infielder, is upset at second as he was forced on Wes Covington's grounder to the shortstop in the seventh inning with the Cincinnati Reds in Clearwater, Fla., Monday. The Reds second baseman Pete Rose is unable to get the ball away in time for a double play. The Reds won, 5-0.

Busy Slate Faces Falcons After Sweep From Aztecs

The booming bats of the Air Force baseball squad are still smouldering and Coach Connie Sparks hopes the fire doesn't go out this week as his Cadet nine has three important local dates this week.

Wednesday the sizzling Falcons tackle Denver University on the Pioneer field, then journey to Ft. Collins and a Saturday single game with the Rams. The CSU encounter will make the seventh straight road game for the Falcons who open the home slate with a Sunday clash with Wyoming.

Sunday's encounter will get under way at 1 p.m. on the varsity diamond directly north of the Cadet Gymnasium. There is no admission charge and the public is invited to attend.

The major assignment for the Falcon opponents will be to cool off the red hot hitting attack of the Cadets. In sweeping a three game series with highly touted San Diego State last weekend, the Falcons blasted 45 hits in 116 at bats for a fantastic .338 team batting average. The Cadets copped 8-3, 16-7 and 5-2 wins over the West Coasters.

Although nearly every Falcon who walked to the plate with a bat on his shoulder could be singled out for his outstanding hitting, individual offensive honors have to go to third baseman Jim Steed.

The hard-hitting junior from Baytown, Tex., literally tore the cover off the ball in rapping out eight hits in 15 trips, including two doubles, a triple and two home runs. Steed also batted in ten runs in the three games.

But even more notable than the power displayed by the nation's leading collegiate hitting team is the steady pitching turned in by Sparks' three-man staff.

In fact, in five games, the Falcons have received five complete games from the staff, half of the seasons' total from last year. In the San Diego series, Pete Bracci, Fred Olmstead and soph Al McClure each went the distance. Bracci scattered eight hits, struck out six and walked only one in winning the opener. Olmsted, playing before his hometown fans, was touched for nine hits, walked four and struck out seven, but coasted to a 16-7 victory.

McClure, the "unknown" on the staff, sparkled in his first starting role. He gave up but six hits, walked four and struck out three in winning a pressure-packed third game.

All three will undoubtedly draw starting assignments in this week's action, but Sparks said he wouldn't decide until game time the pitching order.

Wednesday's game with Denver will be the 18th meeting of the two teams, with the Falcons holding a solid 12-5 lead in the series.

Italian Boxing Federation Issues Protest

ROME (AP) — The Italian Boxing Federation has opened a campaign to keep the European light-heavyweight championship in Italy despite Guilio Rinaldi's loss of the crown last Saturday to Gustav (Bubi) Scholz of Germany.

The Italian group asked the European Boxing Union Monday to withhold confirmation of Scholz as champion. The IBF plans to officially protest Spanish Referee Sanchez Villar's ninth-round disqualification of Rinaldi.

Villar awarded Scholz the verdict after Rinaldi had hit the German with an illegal kidney punch near the end of the eighth round. The IBF contends that the official should have disqualified Rinaldi at the time of the foul—if at all.

Rinaldi has said he fouled Scholz only because the German turned around suddenly.

Two PPL Games Postponed; Full Slate Set for Today

The belated snow and cold temperatures once again were responsible for postponement of Pikes Peak League Baseball games. Two games were scheduled for Monday but were postponed to a latter date this month.

Six-time PPL kingpins from Cheyenne Mountain were slated to kick-off their league campaign last Friday but snow postponed their outing with Widefield for Monday. This was the same schedule for Air Academy High and Manitou Springs. Both games were postponed twice with the Cheyenne-Widefield contest set for April 28. The Academy-Manitou game was re-scheduled for Wednesday, April 15.

Weather permitting, there were three baseball games and a track meet on today's agenda including Manitou at Wasson "B," Cheyenne at St. Mary's, and Canon City at Harrison. The Widefield track squad was to have played host to Cheyenne and Manitou in a triangular track and field meet.

Two baseball games are on tap Friday with Harrison hosting Widefield in league play while Cheyenne is the guest of Academy High in non-league competition.

Olympic Rehash

Although the weatherman has been slightly incooperative with regional spring sports over the last couple weeks, he was exactly on schedule Monday for the appearance of a pair who had a hand in the recent Winter Olympics.

The snow flakes that pierced the April air formed the perfect backdrop for Al Zirkel and Gloria Chadwick making a somewhat belated report on their separate organizations' preparation and results of the Olympiad at Innsbruck, Austria, a couple months ago.

GLORIA CHADWICK
Defends U.S. Team

The occasion was one of the infrequent visits to the local Quarterback Club by guests other than the seasonal coaches of the area, and with the inclusion of a few from the Harlem Satellites (who played an exhibition basketball game for charity Monday night), the visitors just about out-numbered the members.

Zirkel and Miss Chadwick weren't among the participants wearing the Red, White and Blue at Innsbruck as their era in that class of competition is now memory. But their contributions toward Uncle Sam's cause was far greater than many of those in the actual events.

Zirkel, who is an employee at the Broadmoor Hotel, is the secretary of the Amateur Skating Union and Miss Chadwick has a similar title as executive secretary of the U.S. Ski Association, the national coordinator of meets and activities throughout the country which has its headquarters at the Broadmoor.

"Prior to international competition such as the Olympics, one of the main tasks of both these people is the collection of contributions to financially support our teams and to arrange training sites for the athletes. It so happened that both teams were centered in Colorado before this latest Olympics and their pre-Games activities were nearer than usual.

One of the main instigators in bringing the speed skating team here before the Olympics was Zirkel, so it was only natural that he was pretty proud that Terry McDermott returned with a gold medal hanging around his neck.

He expounded on the virtues of Rosemont Reservoir, the Broadmoor's new winter recreatio narea, and the role that ice sheet played in bringing the skaters to their peak before the competition.

"There was ice at Rosemont by November 16 and it withstood a rise in temperature to nearly 60 degrees just before Christmas," Zirkel said. "In this area, Rosemont is perfect for speed skating. But the rest of the country doesn't have this.

"In Minnesota, for instance," he continued, "they didn't have solid ice until December. So for early training this was the ideal place. The high altitude and low resistance made for some terrific times by the skaters but unfortunately they do not count toward world records unless the competition were held here."

Although Zirkel feels that the training the Olympic skaters received here was an important part in the good showing by McDermott and others in the Games, he said it's his personal opinion that the Olympic committee needs youth for improvement.

"Some of the old men on this committee should retire and make room for younger ones," Zirkel said. "But the trouble is that men like Avery Brundage won't get out until they die.

"There were a couple of extra girls included on the team which went to Innsbruck because they were youthful and there is a great future for them and the young men. But we need to interest more young kids in the sport — at five or six years old like some of those skating at the Broadmoor.

"My feeling on the future," Zirkel said, "is that if we can't do it right we ought to get out. We should forget about the older ones and think more about the younger skaters."

Miss Chadwick has somewhat the same idea, although she says that the skiers had a head start on the skaters in that they have been training for the Olympics for the past two years.

"We raised the money for them to compete and held training camps at Aspen two years ago and at Vail last year. But while our skiers improved, the ones from other countries did too.

"It's encouraging, though, because we used to have one capable of winning and now we have a whole team," she said.

Miss Chadwick said that there has been wide criticism of the U.S. Ski Association and Coach Bob Beattie for not sending the team to Europe to ski against the Europeans. But she said the USSA is in agreement with Beattie that if the team can't train in this country then it shouldn't enter at all.

Coming up later this month, she revealed, is an international meet in northern California which will attract many of the best from the Olympics to ski against the best in the U.S.

The main idea of this is that if skiers from throughout the world can be brought here, there will be more prestige attached to meets in this country and top finishers from this nation will get better seedings in international competition.

She also defended the U.S. skiers involved in the widely-publicized incident with the Austrian police in which three were taken into custody and one was given a suspended sentence for resisting arrest.

"I don't think they were treated fairly by the American press," she said. "Actually, the only thing they did wrong was go down a one-way street, and then it was the Austrian police that started a fight with one of them when the skiers tried to find out what was the matter.

"The police over there delighted in taking in anyone speaking English — not only from this country but from Canada, England or anyplace else. Even now the cameramen from one of our television networks are on seven-year suspension because of an incident with them."

CSU Officially Changes Monogram

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP)—From now on, Colorado State University letter-winning athletes will wear a "C" instead of an "A" on their jackets.

Students in a recent poll approved the change by a 3-1 margin. The "A" had been official since the first teams were fielded here in the 1880s.

Celtics Can Clinch Finals Berth Tonight

By WILLIAM READ
United Press International

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI)—The Boston Celtics won't admit it but they are already counting the loot they will earn—about $30,000—by winning the Eastern Division playoffs in the National Basketball Association (NBA).

The Celtics meet the Royals tonight in the fourth game of the series and need a single victory to ruin Cincinnati's best season.

The Royals, runners-up to Boston in the regular season, won the season play 7-5. Some experts thought with the addition of rookie Jerry Lucas, a former Ohio State All-America, to the Cincinnati club and Boston's loss of Bob Cousy could mean the Royals could go all the way.

However the old pros — Boston has won seven consecutive division titles—appeared headed for another crown. Last year they needed seven games to defeat Cincinnati. This year four may be enough. The last time any team swept four straight was in 1959, when Boston trounced Minneapolis in the championships.

At this stage the Celtics are probably more worried about St. Louis than Cincinnati. The Hawks lead San Francisco in the Western Division playoffs, 2-1, with action resuming Wednesday night in St. Louis.

Everyone, however, is not ready to admit Boston will meet the Western Division champs for the NBA title after an easy four games with the Royals.

"Don't count the Royals out yet," they're still a great team," said Celtics Coach Red Auerbach in talking about the Cincinnati club that had defeated his team five straight times at Cincinnati Gardens.

Invaders Team Financial Flop

DENVER (AP)—The Denver Invaders' first season in the Western Hockey League was an artistic success but a financial flop.

BOWLING

Ike Gets Robbed

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Harry (Ike) Eichelberger, Colorado Springs' lone entry in the second annual $25,000 Professional Bowlers Association Denver Open Tournament, considers the experience in the Denver tourney valuable even though he didn't place in the money.

* * *

Eichelberger competed against 96 national touring pros and nine state amateurs for $4,000 in first place prize money last week at Celebrity Lanes in Denver.

And even though the Ent AFB warrant officer lost his bowling gear — someone stole his bowling ball, bag and shoes—Eichelberger feels the experience gained from competing against the nation's top keglers was worth shelling out $100 for the entry fee.

The local bowler failed to make it to the semi-finals as a Kokomo, Ind. kegler Don Johnson headed the 16-man field with a blistering 221.5 average for 40 games. Eichelberger averaged 195, which is good country shooting but not enough to qualify at this competitive outing.

Denver's George McDonald was an early pace-setter in the 40-game quarter-finals, but Johnson came on strong to top the 16-man semi-final list. McDonald advanced to the final game against Johnson when the Mile High City "amateur" defeated Jerry McCoy of Fort Worth and Sam Baca of Hayward, Calif.

Johnson snatched the $4,000 first place prize money when he downed McDonald in a head-to-head single game. Johnson hit for a 255 tally while the Denver bowler scored a 225 game. McDonald won $2,000 for second place.

PRO-AM TOURNEY—In the pro-am end of the Denver Open, two Colorado Springs bowlers placed in the money and shared in the largest prize fund ever offered in the five-year history of the event, $8,640.

Lois Copeland teamed-up with pro Dick Downey and amateur Ted Lewis to captured third place via a 2006 series. The other local bowler, Bob Potter, and his teammates, pro Ray Bluth and amateur Allen Foos, placed fourth with 1973. There were 20 local bowlers competing in the pro-am tournament.

JR. TRAVELING LEAGUE—Chip Jennings, considered one of the better young bowlers in this area, has been a consistent high scorer in the Pikes Peak Region Junior Traveling League.

Last Saturday the 15-year-old Jennings blasted the kingpins for a 244 single game to highlight the Junior Traveling loop slate. Jennings, who is a sophomore at Cheyenne Mountain high school, registered a 630 scratch series this season for his highest effort. The 179 average bowler has been active in the sport for the last four years.

Other scores from last week's session at Classic and Fountain Valley Bowl: Mick Piotrawski, 648 and Danny Brunson, 646; Sherry Denman, 636 and Karen Herbert, 627. High games, Kim Butler, 238 and Shirley Anderson, 233; and Brunson, 243. This Saturday the 108 youngsters are slated to bowl at Trail Bowl and Ute Lanes.

GALS' TRAVELING TOURNEY—The Fountain Valley Bowl team walked off with first place last Sunday during the twice monthly Southern Colorado Bowlero Lanes in Pueblo.

Composed of Ursula Stevenson, Alice Burnside, Peggy Muesborn, Marilyn Moore and Lois Copeland, the local squad fired a 2852 set to win over a field of 15 teams. The Circle Lanes team won second place with 2844, followed by Belmont Lanes, Pueblo, with 2839.

YBA DOUBLES—The YBA Doubles Tournament was conducted at Ute Lanes last Saturday. This was the semi-finals with the state finals for the area set for this Saturday at Peak Bowl.

Preps: Rick Carig and Rick Richer, 716 (two games).

VFW TOURNAMENT—The Pikes Peak VFW Auxiliary No. 4051 won first, second and third places in competition during the recent 1964 state VFW Auxiliary Tournament conducted at Ft. Morgan.

Ruby Oliver won fourth place in the singles while Marge Plumlee and Jewell Varnell tied for fourth place in the doubles competition. This was the first time the local team won the state championship. The winning team was composed of Lois Whitt, Martha Natale, Sue Madden, Orlene Penhale and Sally Wood.

ADC TOURNAMENT—The Ent AFB bowling team will compete in the forthcoming Air Defense Command Tournament slated May 25-28 at the Ent AFB lanes.

During a recent rolloff session to decide the six-man team, Jim Pee led the competition with a pinfall of 4,789 for 24 games. Other members qualifying for the Ent AFB team are Harry (Ike) Eichelberger, Oscar Briley, Jim Elliott, Jim Folsom and Sherm Eldridge.

Out of the 56 keglers entered in the tournament, Hal Church fired the highest three-game series when he posted a 701. Bob Henry had high game honors with a 268 effort.

LOCAL ENTRY—A local team will depart for California this month to compete in the famed 1964 ABC Tournament on April 22.

Composed of Faunt LeRoy, Ed Massey, Larry Berridge, Bill Thompson and Eichelberger, the local squad will carry a respectable 960 scratch game average into the tournament.

For the gals, Marge Averill paved the way with a 243 tally at Bowl-Mor Lanes. Dot Khulman's 620 scratch set took high series honors.

Deane Beman Says USGA Ruining Golf

By OSCAR FRALEY

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—U.S. amateur champion Deane Beman charged today the U.S. Golf Association has "ruined" tournament golf by creating a pattern for its events in which "only one or two players have a chance to win."

"The USGA has set a killing precedent by insisting on extra long courses which favor the big hitters and don't pay off on skill or finesse," said the reigning amateur king, a Bethesda, Md. insurance man. "There are a lot of great players here for the Masters but I don't see how anybody can beat Jack Nicklaus."

Beman contends that the USGA and golf architects should start figuring out how to penalize the long ball hitters to bring them back to the rest of the field.

"Maybe they shouldn't be penalized," he added as an afterthought. "But they should have to play under the same conditions that the shorter hitters face or else lift restrictions on the ball so that everybody can bust it."

The short husky with the crew cut pointed to the Augusta National Golf Club course where the Masters opens Thursday as an example.

"They put in a watering system and the sprinkler heads are at the 225-yard mark," he said. "So the fairway is soaked from 200 yards to 250 yards. The average good player hits it into that area and doesn't get any roll. Nicklaus and a few others can knock it past that wet spot and usually get a dry roll and a downhill contour that offers them more assistance."

The Masters course favors the long hitter even more than most, Beman contended, because of its wide open fairways and lack of rough.

"They can really be reckless here, those long hitters," he grunted. "Here you can hardly believe the edge this gives a hitter such as Nicklaus. Why he can play badly and be close to the top while the rest of us have to play to our maximum ability. If he plays to his maximum, nobody can hope to be close to him.

The key to bringing the big hitters back to the field, Beman holds, is to lay out courses on which accuracy is demanded of them.

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — With every drop of rain, the Augusta National Golf Course grew longer, and the field for the Masters got smaller.

"This course always favors the long hitter," said veteran Byron Nelson. "And with a soaking rain, it favors the man who hits the ball a long way in the air. That's Jack Nicklaus."

"The rain cuts the field of players with a good chance down to only four or five," said the even more veteran Gene Sarazen. "Nicklaus, and just a handful of others: Arnold Palmer, old Sam Snead, maybe. And among the youngsters, Rex Baxter and Jack Rule."

Nicklaus, the 24-year-old Golden Bear who last year was the youngest player ever to win the Masters, looked at the steady downpour Monday and and admitted it didn't hurt chances to be the first player ever to repeat.

"This is just wonderful for me," he said.

Rain is expected to continue off and on through Wednesday, according to the Weather Bureau, although it is hoped the course will be fit for practice rounds today. It was closed before noon Monday.

The tournament opens Thursday, and it seems highly unlikely there will be enough sunshine to put any roll back ito the lush fairways.

Nicklaus was asked if he thought a wet course would turn the tournament into a Nicklaus-Palmer battle.

"I certainly hope so," Nicklaus said, "because that would mean that I would be right up there. Arnold is just about ready to start playing his best golf. He's hitting the ball as far as I've ever seen him hit it."

Palmer, the Masters winner in 1958, 1960 and 1962, agreed that he is driving in the Nicklaus range. "I'm happy about my driving, and I feel my irons are a little better," he said. "I've been playing pretty well and I feel better coming into this tournament than I have for three or four years."

Red Wing Coach Hot at Official

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tempers may flare in Detroit tonight if the red-necked Red Wings are half as mad at the Chicago Black Hawks as they are at referee Frank Udvari.

The veteran official took a verbal beating from Detroit Coach Sid Abel Monday as the Wings and Hawks prepared for the sixth game of their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semifinal series. Detroit, trailing 3-2, is a step away from oblivion but the Red Wings have a ready-made scapegoat in Udvari if they fail to force Chicago into a deciding seventh game.

Abel accused Udvari of "choking up" when he allowed a disputed Chicago goal in the Hawks' 3-2 victory last Sunday. He called the official's decision "ridiculous" and said it cost Detroit the game.

"I've never seen anything like this in all the time I've been in hockey," Abel said.

The Red Wings asked the National Hockey League to replace Udvari scheduled to work Thursday's seventh game in Chicago—if there is one—with another referee. NHL President Clarence Campbell said, however, that such a change would be impossible.

Udvari is no stranger to controversy. He has been involved in many a stormy games, including the opener of the current semifinal set between Montreal and Toronto. Udvari called 31 penalties—a playoff record—in that game.

The Canadiens and Maple Leafs meet in Toronto tonight and Montreal, ahead 3-2, needs one more victory to eliminate the defending Cup champions.

PAR OR BETTER

U.S. OPEN CHAMPION

12 -- Pre-Swing Pattern

Now you are ready to place your club to the ball. Sole the club so the bottom rests level on the ground. If the toe of the club is sticking up, you are too close. That bottom line must be level.

With your feet in position, your weight properly set, and your knees flexed, you will find you are bent slightly forward at the waist.

Make sure your back is practically straight from your waist to your shoulders.

As you address the ball, your arms should hang straight down from the shoulders. The extension of your left arm should form a straight line with the club. Your hands, as you look down the shaft of the club, should be slightly ahead of the ball.

I widen my stance, again reaffirm my line, and waggle the clubhead. All of this is done in a rhythmical flow of motion. After I have placed the clubhead behind the ball, my feet are still close together. Then I move my left foot to the left. At the same time I again reaffirm my line and raise the clubhead over the ball in a semi-waggle.

Finally, with my feet spread the proper width for the shot at hand and with my hips still preturned to the left, I take a final waggle and begin my backswing with no conscious pause beforehand.

Cronin Says Five Team AL Chase

By BOB HOOBING
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP)—Chicago, Baltimore, Minnesota and Detroit will press the defending champion New York Yankees in a five-way American League pennant fight, President Joe Cronin believes.

His reasoning: All four show marked improvement while the Yankees, seeking their 14th flag in 16 years, have stood still.

The 64th campaign opens next Monday with Los Angeles in Washington. Cronin made his remarks Monday on the basis of his observations at Florida spring training camps.

"I can't predict a 10-team race as much as we would hope for one," Cronin said. "I pick the White Sox, Orioles, Twins and Tigers as the leading challengers to the Yankees because each has decidely improved.

"The Yankees are still the Yankees.

"Their defense is as good as ever under new Manager Yogi Berra. But I didn't see Mickey Mantle step out. He's still favoring the knee on which he had the operation. Roger Maris wasn't doing much.

"The biggest New York concern is pitching—namely, more help for Whitey Ford, Jim Bouton and Al Downing. The problem is not the eight men on the field, its on the mound and in the bullpen."

The Cronin analysis of the four challengers:

Chicago — "Al Lopez is the most optimistic manager down there. In switchhitting Don Buford up from Indianapolis, the White Sox have a mature, 27-year old rookie second baseman who can fly and made the trade of Nellie Fox possible. The Sox have good speed and more pitching help in the big rookie, Fritz Ackley.

Baltimore — "Hank Bauer has instilled a lot of aggressiveness in the lineup. He's got the club hustling. I think shortstop Luis Aparicio is in for a really great year. Bauer is making him the take-charge guy and Aparicio is taking hold very well. He's the one who runs in to the pitcher now."

The race: "I think it will be better as a result of the Dodgers beating New York in the World Series. Some of the teams who thought the Yankees were invincible may change their thinking."

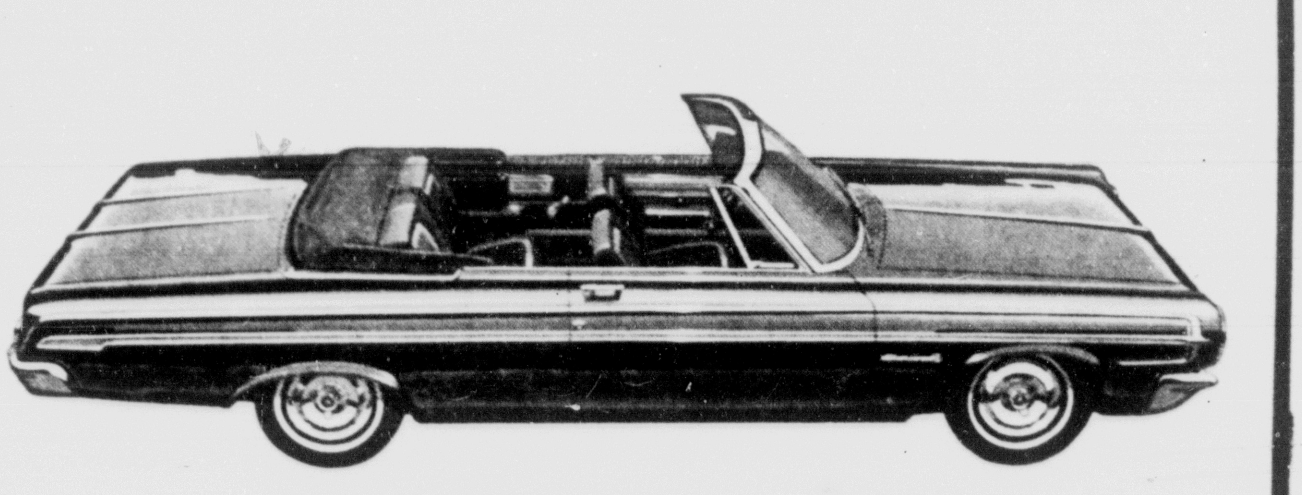
THE DEPENDABLES: SUCCESS CARS OF '64



We have designs to get you in our power

Our engineers are a wily group of guys who spend most of their time dreaming up ways to win your approval. Take the Dodge Polara 500.

Perhaps our approach to power will further illustrate the point. With the Polara 500 you aren't baked in on a certain engine. You can choose from a standard 318 cu. in. Komives Wins Cage Scoring Title

The 6-foot-1 senior fired at a 36.7 points-per-game clip-third highest average in history—and headed a record list of seven collegians with averages of better than 30 points per-game, according to final statistics released today by the NCAA.

Manny Newsome, Western Michigan, 32.7, Bill Bradley, Princeton, 32.3, Rick Barry, Mi-Princeton, 32.3, Rick Barry, Miami, Fla., 32.2, Gary Bradds, Ohio State, 30.6, and Steve Thomas, Xavier, Ohio, 30.0 completed the 30-point club.

Komives vaulted from 45th postion a year ago to the top spot. He capped his college career with a record 50 straight free throws in his last five games.

Only Frank Selvy, former Furman star, and ex-Utah gunner Bill McGill finished with higher season averages. Selvy averaged 41.7 points per-game in 1954 and McGill posted a 38.8 mark in 1962.

A pair of team records fell. Detroit's 96.1 scoring average erased the mark of 95.8 set by Morehead State in 1956. Davidson shot .544 from the floor, eclipsing the field goal accuracy record of .521 held by Auburn's 1960 team.

Giants Player Trade Key to Pennant Chase

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 10th of 20 dispatches on the 1964 prospects of the major league baseball clubs.

By SCOTT BAILLIE
UPI Sports Writer

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—The San Francisco Giants worked a six-man deal during the winter to restore their pitching staff but the new,- veteran hurlers may have to depend on a pair of rookies for extra support in the field and at the plate.

Manager Alvin Dark plans to go with the new men until he is convinced that they cannot make it.

"Right now, Jim Ray Hart is our third baseman and Jesus Alou is our right fielder," Dark says. "Those two boys will have to show me that they can't play."

The key deal came on December 3 when the Giants obtained pitchers Bob Shaw (7-11) and southpaw Bob Hendley (9-9) from the Milwaukee Braves along with veteran catcher Del Crandall. But Milwaukee in return got outfielder Felipe Alou, always a quiet inspiration to the Giants although he disliked Candlestick Park's gales, catcher Ed Bailey and left-handed pitcher Billy Hoeft.

In an earlier trade, the Giants landed left-handed pitcher Ken MacKenzie of the St. Louis Cardinals and Yale in exchange for catcher Jim Coker. Jack Fisher, who was a disappointment with the Giants' mound staff, went to the New York Mets in a special draft for the needy.

A main question is whether Hart, who swings a lusty bat, can make it at third base in place of the gifted Jim Davenport who is being tried at second.

Can Jesus Alou replace brother Felipe in right field? The younger Alou is a trim, sharp hitter who batted .324 at Tacoma last year and drove across 64 runs.

In addition to such established starters as Juan Marichal (25-8), Jack Sanford (16-13) and lefty Billy O'Dell (14-10), the team landed another potential southpaw starter in Hendley.

Shaw, star hurler for the 1959 American League champion Chicago White Sox, figures to share relief chores with Don Larsen (7-7) who was the Giants' best fireman last year despite a couple of disastrous gopher balls.

The club seems to be comfortably set elsewhere. Willie Mays, who finished up the 1963 season with a .314 batting average, and 38 home runs despite a poor start, is in center field as usual. In left field is Willie McCovey, co-holder of the National League home run title with 44 blasts. Orlando Cepeda, who batted .316 and hit 34 homers, returns to first base. And shortstop Jose Pagan vows that he will come back from a slump-ridden 1963 season in which he was plagued by overweight and sore arm.

The catching will be divided between left-handed belter Tom Haller and the right-handed Crandall, who could become a needed "take charge guy." Del hit only .201 last year in his 13th season as a Brave but says, "I hope that isn't indicative of what I can do."

Purdue's Adams to Defend Crown at Kansas Relays

He also will anchor 440 and 880-yard relay teams as Purdue bids for those crowns for the first time at Kansas. Coach Dave Rankin can put together formidable combinations with Al Washington, Big Ten indoor 440 runner-up, joining Adams.

Adams had wind-blown marks of 9.3 and 20.8 seconds in winning the 100 and 220 in last year's Big Ten Championships. He placed third in both races in the NCAA.

At the Kansas Relays last year, Adams edged Omaha's Roger Sayers at 9.6 seconds in the 100, then came back to take the open 100 meters in 10.3.

Also filing Monday were Houston, with a 25-man squad, Wichita with 19, North Texas State with six, Texas Tech with 13, and Iowa State with one—high hurdler Norm Johnston.

Houston will bring back Geoff Walker, Australian veteran who won the open three-mile at last week's Texas Relays, and won the 5,000 meters at the Kansas Relays in 1963. Walker and Miler Lauri Elliott furnish the closing kick on the Cougars' distance medley and four-mile teams.

Also filing were two prominent graduates — Kent Floerke formerly of Kansas, and Rich Cuddihy, former Oregon State distance runner. Floerke will defend his triple jump title. He won the national AAU crown last year at 51-7¾, well beyond the Relays record of 50-3. Cuddihy signed up for the 5,000 and 10,000 meters.

Sandy Koufax, Mays Back in Peak Form

By FRED DOWN
UP Sports Writer

Sandy Koufax is back in the winning column and Willie Mays is batting .411 so that National League pennant race can start any time now as far as the Los Angeles Dodgers and San Francisco Giants are concerned.

With the two "big men" in fine form, the Dodgers have evened their spring series with the New York Yankees and the Giants have raised their exhibition record to 21-7.

Koufax broke a four-game losing streak with six strong innings on the mound as the Dodgers beat the Yankees, 5-1, at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Monday night while Mays hit a triple and two doubles in the Giants' 9-7 victory over the Chicago Cubs at Phoenix, Ariz.

Koufax allowed four hits and yielded only one run in his next-to-last outing before next Tuesday's opener against the St. Louis Cardinals. The Dodgers scored two runs in the fifth and three in the seventh against rookie left-hander Bob Meyer. A record 7,656 turned out to see the renewal of the 1963 World Series rivalry.

The Giants closed the Arizona phase of their training schedule on a victorious note with a three-run rally in the eighth after the Cubs tied the score in the seventh. Billy Williams hit his third homer of the spring for the Cubs, who had beaten the Giants in five of their previous seven meetings.

Bo Belinsky pitched a no-hitter for 4 1-3 innings and allowed only three hits in six innings as the Los Angeles Angels defeated the Cleveland Indians, 7-1. Bobby Knoop and Billy Moran each had a double and a single to lead the Angels' nine-hit attack.

John Tsitouris yielded seven hits in seven innings as the Cincinnati Reds topped the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-3. Marty Keough had a two-run double and Deron Johnson a homer for the Reds and Gus Triandos and Cookie Rojas homered for the Phillies.

Likely opening day pitcher Ray Herbert went seven innings in the Chicago White Sox' 2-1 win over the New York Mets. The White Sox scored both their runs off Tracy Stallard in the first inning on doubles by Mike Hershberger and Al Weiss, an infield single by Floyd Robinson and a double play hit into by Joe Cunningham.

The Detroit Tigers rallied for three runs in the ninth inning to top the Kansas City Athletics, 8-7. Dick McAuliffe and Purnal Goldy knocked in three runs each for the Tigers while rookie Dick Green had two hits, including a homer, for the Athletics.

Successive singles by Joe Torre, Gene Oliver, Frank Bolling and Roy McMillan produced two runs in the second inning and sent the Milwaukee Braves on their way to a 2-1 decision over the Houston Colts. Denny Lemaster and rookies Dick Kelley and Phil Niekro limited the Colts to six hits. The win was the Braves' 17th in 22 games.

Manny Mota hit a grand slam homer and Gene Alley drove in four runs as the Pittsburgh Pirates womped the Minnesota Twins, 12-4. Willie Stargell and Bob Bailey had three hits each in the Pirates' 15-hit attack. Don Schwall went seven innings for the Pirates.

Stewart Will Aid Musial

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The man who will be the new administrator for President Johnson's Council on Physical Fitness hasn't gained a pound since he lettered in three sports at Syracuse University in the 1930s.

St. Louis University athletic director, J. Robert Stewart, accepted the offer of the administrative job from Physical Council boss Stan Musial. Stewart flew to Washington Monday night to meet with Musial, who was appointed by the President Feb. 14th to head the council.

"I'm glad to get the job," said the 47-year-old Stewart, who weighs 190 pounds, and keeps his weight down by playing handball with such men as St. Louis Cardinal first baseman Bill White.

"St. Louis University has been good to me," the amiable native of Rochester, N.Y., said. "But the new job is a challenge and an upgrading. I believe I can meet the challenge."

Stewart lettered in football, basketball and soccer at Syracuse before he graduated in 1939. He coached in high schools at Syracuse and Rochester, N.Y., before becoming associate athletic director of Michigan State University. He conducted a combat fitness program while he was in the Navy in the mid-50s. Stewart became athletic director of St. Louis U. in 1958.

Under Stewart, St. Louis University's Billikens have taken the NCAA soccer championships three out of the last four years and last year the Billikens won the Missouri Valley Conference baseball championships.

Nebraska Opens Grid Practice

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Nebraska football Coach Bob Devaney welcomed nearly 100 candidates Monday as he opened spring drills in preparation for a defense next fall of the Big Eight grid crown.

Every eligible Husker except backfielder Kent McCloughan, excused so he can compete in track, showed up. Drills will be held on Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

Chief concern will be the selection of replacements for such departing linemen as Lloyd Voss, Monte Kiffin and Bob Brown, and such backs as Dennis Claridge, Rudy Johnson and Willie Ross.

Although 11 lettermen are being lost by graduation, 26 returning lettermen will form the nucleus for the team.

That says a lot about its appeal. To be first choice in a nation with thousands of brands, it has to be good.

It's so good all by itself that it makes more kinds of delicious drinks than any other whiskey. That's also a fact.

WBA Drops Sonny Liston From Ratings

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Former heavyweight champion Sonny Liston hasn't been suspended by the World Boxing Association. But he can't fight to regain his crown until he is reinstated to the WBA's ratings.

Ed Lassman, WBA president, said Monday night that Liston had been dropped from the ratings because of a police charge pending in Denver. He is accused of carrying a concealed weapon.

The WBA said in a Monday release of ratings that "former heavyweight champion Sonny Liston was removed from the ratings due to his indefinite suspension."

However, Lassman said later, "Liston is not suspended; he is simply removed from the ratings."

Lassman said a correction would be made in next week's WBA bulletin.

He said that Liston, though not suspended, could not be considered a contender for the heavyweight title until placed back on the WBA standings.

Lassman said if Liston "makes an appeal to come back and behaves himself," he was sure WBA members would consider reinstating him on the ratings.

Former infielders Ray (Ike) Boone and Bobby Doerr are Boston Red Sox scouts.

Giants Conclude Training

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — The San Francisco Giants come home from pre-season play bearing the championship of the Cactus League and some gaudy batting averages.

In beating the Chicago Cubs 9-7 Monday in Phoenix, the Giants boosted their record in Cactus League play to 21-5.

All but one of the Giants expected to be in the starting lineup April 14 when San Francisco opens the season against Milwaukee at Candlestick Park tore Arizona pitching apart for better than .300 averages.

First baseman Orlando Cepeda paced the batting binge with a .438 average. His hits included four doubles, five triples and a team-leading six home runs. He also batted 26 runs across to lead San Francisco in that category.

Centerfielder Willie Mays also enjoyed a fine spring, rapping the ball for a .411 average. Willie McCovey hit .391, Jimmy Davenport was .326 and catcher Tom Haller hit .315.

Jesus Alou, a candidate to replace his traded brother Felipe in right field, came through with a .387 average. And Jim Ray Hart, who is being counted on to plug the gap left by Davenport's switch to second, hit Cactus League pitching at a .351 pace.

Winthrop Says He Could Get Arkansas Vote

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Winthrop Rockefeller, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor in Arkansas, says he could be elected governor "if we can get the vote counted."

Rockefeller claimed there have been irregularities at the polls in the past, and said Monday night, "We've got a file in my office and I could spend hours showing you the proof we have."

Tom Harper of Fort Smith, Democratic national committeeman for Arkansas, said Rockefeller's charges were "a bunch of baloney."

He said the Republican party has a "great responsibility to see that there are no irregularities (at the polls)."

Asked later about specific incidents, Rockefeller said Arkansas Republicans have photostatic copies of ballots "cast by people in Michigan for elections in Conway County." That is Rockefeller's home county.

County Judge Wiley Bean ruled there had been irregularities, but that they were unintentional, Rockefeller said. "The federal government said no federal laws were violated."

Rockefeller said Conway County is not the only place where there have been voting irregularities.

Harper said Rockefeller has never proved anything, and "has got to talk about something.

"He doesn't have much else to talk about," Harper said.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus, who is expected to announce next week for Democratic nomination to a sixth consecutive term, could not be reached for comment.

Rockefeller said polls he has taken and his talks with voters, many of them Democrats who say they don't believe in a sixth term, have convinced him he could beat Faubus.

When Rockefeller, brother of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, announced his candidacy last Saturday, William L. Spicer, chairman of the State Republican Executive Committee, said Rockefeller would "absolutely not" have a united party behind him.

Nikita, at 70, Still Chief Figure in Russian Rule

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP) — Nikita S. Khrushchev reaches his 70th birthday Thursday still the dominant figure of the Soviet Union. Problems at home and abroad besiege him but he acts as if hardly a cloud troubles him in the approaching winter of his life.

Three weeks before his birthday, he gaily boarded a train, his wife Nina beside him, to join in an anniversary celebration of a wartime victory in Budapest and to deal with the conflict with Communist China for world party leadership.

The China problem was blown to fever heat with the publication of a reply drafted by Khrushchev's ideological spokesman, Mikhail Suslov. This had been held up six weeks while party leaders decided whether to publish it.

It was largely a defensive declaration but proposed, clearly over much opposition in the Communist camp, a showdown meeting of Communist parties of the world. This conflict with China carries far more potential dynamite, both for Russia and the world Communist movement, than the West faces in the peculiar conflict between the United States and De Gaulle's France.

Khrushchev has other troubles, such as agriculture, the nagging problem of Soviet treatment of Jews and some unhappy Armenians, his own writers and painters, plus a labor slowdown. These discolor the picture he would like to paint for the world about the good life under communism.

There are more whisperings of discontent than there were even a year ago. In the past year, the Chinese crisis has grown worse, and the near-failure of the wheat crop turned a glaring spotlight on the agricultural program he has managed almost on a personal basis for 11 years.

Not in a number of years have more disagreeable personal jokes circulated about him—by Russians, not by foreigners.

Despite the criticism of his agricultural policies, Khrushchev can always say—and he does say it—that production is ahead of 10 years ago. But it is not as far ahead as it ought to be. Khrushchev's bright forecasts have bounced back.

It is almost impossible to buy flour in Moscow, a favored city. White bread is gray with ersatz products. A vast expenditure of about $46 billion has been projected for the coming seven years to put life into agriculture and advance the chemical industry to a point reached by Western countries years ago.

While Khrushchev is older than most of his associates, he is still by far the most dynamic governmental figure in the Soviet Union, and perhaps in the world. He has been in power, or at the side of power, longer than any living leader of a top-level nation. His rival for Communist influence, Mao Tze-tung, has shucked off most of his governmental duties. Since 1957, Khrushchev has been pretty much the undisputed boss in the Soviet Union, both government and party.

Western diplomats often comment that any Western executive with as many successive crises would surely be shaken out of his job. In addition to the China crisis, there is the Cuba affair of the rockets, which boiled over in October-November of 1962.

The year 1962-63 saw the artists and writers crisis that had to be quieted by the sternest kind of orders—so stern that many artists and writers are largely out of action, or working under cover.

Hardest to bear was the crop crisis. About one million tons of wheat had to be bought, part of it from the overflowing bins of the American Middle West, which Khrushchev has so often said he would leave behind. That has drained hundreds of millions of dollars in gold and foreign exchange out of Soviet coffers, which are not overloaded with money.

There are debates in the party councils. The waving course of agricultural and industrial policy has demonstrated the pulling and hauling first of one faction, then another. Reports trickle out that the debate over China has been difficult, perhaps acrid.

Yet Khrushchev conducts himself in public with the ease of a man who acknowledged no worth in any enemy, and no challenge to his own power. On any stage others seem colorless beside him.

He has mapped out a program that would tax a much younger man. He is going to Cairo to face the blazing heat of the deserts in May while he helps inaugurate the first stage of the Aswan Dam. In June he tours the three Scandinavian countries.

He looks after himself more than he did. He takes long rests. He likes Moscow when it is biting cold. When it begins to get slushy, he wants none of it. He goes to the Black Sea in the late winter and early spring.

He has trimmed his diet and has lost weight. Eight years ago he admitted he was having kidney trouble. He was a heavy drinking man in those days. Now he nurses a glass of champagne through a two-hour reception.

He has not held an important, give-and-take press conference in Moscow in three years. He occasionally banters a few words with reporters he runs into, but brushes aside any serious questioning.

For touring editors from America and Britain he answers streams of questions, but the give and take are normally polite and easy.

He has seen a lot in his time, from the coal mines to the highest level of diplomatic exchange at summit conferences. He came up the tough way.

The guess is he won't fade away. No one can say whether he will die quietly in bed or in the heat of political battle.

Sellers Suffers Heart Attack In Hollywood

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—British actor Peter Sellers was in Cedars of Lebanon Hospital today, victim of a heart attack—and for one of the rare times in Hollywood a movie did not know which way to go.

The British actor, 38, was stricken in his home Monday with what the hospital called a moderate heart attack—halfway between a light and heavy coronary.

He has been working in his first Hollywood film, "Kiss Me, Stupid."

A spokesman for Harold Mirisch, producer of the film, said: "It is such a part that no one but Peter Sellers could play. We don't know who else we could get to replace him. Our insurance covers us on this sort of thing, and I have a feeling we will suspend the picture until we can get Peter Sellers back."

The actor, one of the most versatile of British comedians, was taken by ambulance to the hospital where his condition was first reported as "very severe."

Later, a hospital bulletin said, "Mr. Sellers suffered a moderate heart attack, and his condition was listed as fair. He is expected to be hospitalized for several weeks."

Sellers' bride of two months, Swedish actress Britt Eklund, 21, a beauteous blonde, said her ~~husband had no previous history~~ of ill health.

Their honeymoon was interrupted when he came here to do the picture. She stayed in England, working on "Guns of Batasi," but on March 20 she abruptly left the picture and joined her husband here. Since then 20th Century-Fox has sued Sellers and Miss Eklund for $1½ million, alleging breach of contract.

Sellers, a hard worker, has been known to play as many as seven different parts in one movie. During the last year he made five movies.

State Attempts To Settle Trial Of Beckwith

By GAVIN SCOTT

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—The state tries to settle on a 12th juror today for the Byron De La Beckwith racial murder trial in this Deep South city.

Eleven men, all white, were accepted by Dist. Atty. William Waller Monday night after nearly 10 hours of tedious questioning. They still must be accepted by the defense.

Waller used half of the state's dozen peremptory challenges — that is, challenges without cause. The defense also has 12 challenges.

The state charges Beckwith, 43, arch-segregationist from Greenwood, Miss., was the sniper who killed Negro integration leader Medgar Evers from ambush last June 12.

The first trial ended Feb. 7 with the all-white jury unable to make up its mind. Reportedly it was divided 6-6.

As the second trial opened Monday, the principals were back in their assigned roles but the atmosphere was more relaxed.

Silver-haired Judge Leon Hendrick speeded up the jury selection by weeding out 44 prospective jurors — from among the more than 200 who reported—before turning them over to Waller for questioning.

Should Beckwith be convicted, the jury would have the responsibility under Mississippi law to determine if punishment should be death or life imprisonment.

Looking at Hollywood

AN EXHAUSTED O'TOOLE FAINTS ON LNDN TV

HOLLYWOOD—Peter O'Toole is the most exhausted actor in filmdom. He fainted on a TV program in London a few days after his return to civilization after four months' work in Hong Kong and Cambodia for "Lord Jim." The incident caused much comment, much of it malicious. The truth was that Peter was pooped—and how!

"All of a sudden, the sentence 'I was tired' became hilarious in my songs and funny patter," says O'Toole. "I'm an insomnic by nature and can't remember when I've had a full night's sleep. I honestly didn't know what day it was. I haven't had a day's rest since I started breaking by back on the desert in 'Lawrence of Arabia' nearly four years ago, and spent the last few months actually under the guns of a predictable outbreak of anti-western violence in 'Lord Jim.'"

O'TOOLE AND THE REST of the company breathed a sigh of relief after finishing their location in Cambodia. He and his wife, Actress Sian Phillips, were attending the premiere of 'Becket' in London when mobs of Cambodian government employes and students attacked and sacked the American and British embassies.

"We got out one week before the rioting. Richard Brooks, who directed the picture, heard rumors from his embassy contacts and was afraid we'd get booted out with a half-finished film. So we worked day and night, without rest, during the last three weeks.

"It was a murderous pace. Not for Brooks. He's made of stainless steel. But the rest of us delicate-actor types—Eli Wallach, Paul Lukas, Daliah Lavi, Kurt Jurgens, and myself—we're only flesh and blood. On our jungle sets, it was a damp 120 degrees the day and at night it got so cold we had goose pimples. Most of us had dysentery, anyway. I still can't believe I managed to get on that plane without a stretcher."

HE FLEW OUT to Hong Kong in November immediately after his last performance as "Hamlet" in the two-month run that inaugurated Sir Laurence Oliver's new National theater in London. "People always expect me to make profound comments about playing 'Hamlet,' but all I can think of to say is, 'It's harder than riding a camel.'"

He didn't spare himself in "Lord Jim." He refused a double or stunt man for the difficult, dangerous action sequences. In the film he dives into a snake-infested river, battles a fire on a rickety dighy in midocean, leads an assault against an enemy stockade, takes a precarious one-handed ride on a huge freight crane from ship to shore, and generally carries on in a manner he hopes will impress his 5-year-old daughter's playmates.

"HER FRIENDS THINK that John Wayne's knocking out a dozen villains with one punch is the height of good acting," says O'Toole. "All that camel-charging I did in 'Lawrence'—which cost me a fractured collarbone and a dozen less serious injuries—struck them as being pretty tame and sometimes funny. When they caught me sneaking home from rehearsals one day in my Hamlet outfit, they officially crossed me off their list.

"I've offered to take them all to the first afternoon screening of 'Lord Jim' in an effort to clear my name."

Tired though he is, O'Toole isn't planning on a vacation in the near future. His finish date on "Jim" is also the starting date of his portrayal of Nimrod in John Huston's version of "The Bible." And he's talking to Sam Spiegel about doing "The Chase" here immediately after that. "I'm so exhausted now that I'm afraid I'll never be able to start again if I allow myself to stop. My fellow Irishmen have taken to calling me Seamus O'Glick."

Lake Elsinore In California Regains Water

ELSINORE, Calif. (AP) — Lake Elsinore, the pride of this rolling Southern California ranch country till it up and evaporated, is a gleaming jewel again.

Not long ago the lake was home only to tumbleweeds, dust clouds and crumbling boat houses, long abandoned.

Now water skiers crisscross its surface. Twelve thousand turned out for dedication ceremonies. The population of 2,300 is enjoying a boomlet—thanks to their own enterprise.

But Southern California's still continuing drought kept lowering the lake's depth 4½ feet every summer and in 1951 it went dry.

The emergency clinic treats more than 150,000 patients each year, including 100,000 Negroes.

Corregidor Turned Down as Funeral Site

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Department officials disclosed today that in 1962 it was proposed to Gen. Douglas MacArthur that after his death he be buried at the highest point of Corregidor Island.

A memorial is to be raised there where MacArthur's Philippine defenders finally surrendered to the Japanese in 1942 —to the dead of the Pacific fighting in World War II.

MacArthur's advisers told the State Department that the general had made a commitment the year before to be buried at the MacArthur memorial site in Norfolk, Va., where he will be laid to rest Saturday.

Lodge Will Not Be on List in California

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It appears three Republican presidential aspirants will have their names on the California primary ballot, but Henry Cabot Lodge, top on the list of a recent statewide poll, will not be among them.

The poll, directed by Mervin D. Field, showed that first choice among all Republicans queried was Lodge, ambassador to Viet Nam and surprise write-in victor in the New Hampshire primary.

There has not, however, been any indication of an attempt to qualify Lodge for the June 2 primary.

In a flurry of last-minute petition signatures, proponents of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and former Minnesota Gov. Harold E. Stassen said they had produced the required number of signatures.

State election officials said the third candidate, Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater, qualified some time ago.

The deadline for presidential filings passed at 5 p.m. Friday. Registrars and county clerks in California's 58 counties said they would require five days to confirm validity of the signatures.

On the Democratic side, opposing petitions representing President Johnson were offered at the deadline by Samuel W. Yorty. Earlier the opposition slate of Gov. Edmund G. Brown was submitted in behalf of the same candidate.

POETIC DEFENSE

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)— A brief by attorney James B. Blair was on file with the Arkansas Supreme Court today, asking reversal of a drunken conviction against his rainmaker-client Homer Berry.

Blair contended Berry was not drunk and quoted an 1829 definition attributed to Thomas Love Peacock:

"Not drunk is he who from the floor
Can rise alone and still drink more;
But drunk is he, who prostrate lies

Byron Brown Named Rifle Sharpshooter

Marine Pvt. Byron D. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Brown of 169 Ithaca St., Security, has qualified as a Marine rifle sharpshooter while undergoing recruit training at San Diego, Calif.

He will complete this part of his primary training late this month and be sent to nearby Camp Pendleton for four weeks of individual combat and advanced weapons instruction. Brown will then be given a 23-day leave before reporting to the Technical Training Center, Memphis, Tenn., for formal school instruction in an aviation job specialty.

Stop Reading by Word . . . and Get Better Grades

By The Reading Laboratory, Inc.

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Association

Time your reading of this column and compare your speed with that indicated at the end. The expected speed assumes a daily five per cent improvement.

●

Pre-reading tells you what to read and just as important, what not to read. Looking for a date in the Revolutionary War? Then skip Washington's family history. What authorities were cited? Skip the charts and that column of numbers. Add to skipping, our drills for greater eye perspective and you're a fast skipper.

Now we come to skimming. You certainly don't skip and skim through poetry, drama, classical novels or even Perry Mason, but you do use it in what we've been calling practical prose.

SKIMMING FOR FACTS. Here's where your phrase-reading and enlarged eye span really help. If the column you're reading is a news column (about two inches wide), one fixation per line is plenty. Now zigzag your way down the column. Use a pencil in the early practice stages. Look to the left of the pencil on the first line, to the right of the pencil on the second line, back to the left on the third and so on down. After awhile, practice will make the pencil unnecessary.

Now try the wider columns of your text book. The technique is the same, but you'll need two fixations per line. Drawing the pencil down the middle, fixate to the left of the pencil on the first line, then to the right on the same line, and so on down the page. So that individual words will not distract you, read between the lines as we practiced in the preceding column. As you skim your way down the page, that name, that date, that number will leap out at you—IF you are very sure in your mind what you are skimming for.

A note of caution: In the early stages of skimming, you may start out looking for something, trying to skim as we've explained it. First thing you know, you're concerned with how you're skimming and you forgot what you were looking for. That's natural and practice overcomes it. At first, pick out narrow columns only and skim for as many proper names as possible. They begin with capital letters so they'll stand out. Then see how many numbers, for example, you can pick up. After skimming becomes a habit, try the practice on wider columns.

SKIMMING FOR IDEAS. This adds one simple step to skimming for particular facts. Big ideas won't be written in one word or in capital letters. They will take a paragraph or more. Do it this way.

You've skipped till you arrived in the neighborhood where you know the idea should be. Read the first sentence of the paragraph. That should be plenty; if not, read the second. Skim through the rest of that paragraph, and read the first sentence of the next. Haven't found it? Skim through the rest of the second paragraph. This is what will happen. Either the first sentence of a succeeding paragraph will tell you that you're "home," or else a sentence in a later paragraph will tell you that you passed "home." Either way, you found it by skimming.

(You should have completed this reading in 65 seconds.)

German Air Force Chief to Receive AFA Briefing

Lt. Gen. Werner Panitski, chief of staff of the German Air Force, is scheduled to receive a briefing on the mission and operation of the Air Force Academy Monday.

Gen. Panitski will be greeted by the superintendent, Maj. Gen. Robert H. Warren, then receive a briefing on the overall Academy academic, military and physical training program, and lunch in Mitchell Hall, cadet dining hall.

As a guest of U.S. Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Gen. Panitski is receiving a general orientation of Air Force operations and training. A pilot since 1935, the German chief of staff was named to his present post in 1962. He also served as chief of the Air Force Department, chief of staff of the Armed Forces Staff, commander of the 4th Air Division, and commander of the Air Forces Group North.

Enlistments On Increase In This Area

During the first three months of this year there have been 61 volunteers for the Regular Army. This is 27 more than for the same period last year when only 34 volunteered for Army duty.

"Word must be getting around" was the answer Sgt. Sandberg gave for the great increase in volunteer enlistments. He referred to the U.S. Army's exclusive program of guarnteed assignments before enlistment with the Army.

"The guarantee plus the variety of choices account for our successful enlistment program in the Colorado Springs area. We offer everything from the excitement of the Combat Arms to some of the best Technical School training available in this country," the sergeant said.

SCHOOL SEGREGATION

DENVER (UPI) — The Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, president of the University of Notre Dame, said Saturday most school boards were faced with an "insoluble problem" in the matter of de facto segregation in schools. Father Hesburgh, speaking in Denver, said no school board can completely eliminate segregation in the schools until all segregation is first eliminated in housing. Father Hesburgh is a member of President Johnson's U.S. Commission on Civil Rights.

Silver Dollars Shipped West During Coin Run

WASHINGTON (AP) — Millions of silver dollars were shipped to Western gambling centers during the recent run on the large coins, bank officials said here.

During the two-week run on the cartwheels, a Washington bank received orders ranging up to $2 million each from Las Vegas and other gambling cities. Cartwheels are used in slot machines and as poker chips in some areas; in other areas of the West the hard dollar is more popular than the paper kind.

Treasury officials said they believe the run was caused by collectors and dealers who were looking for Morgan silver dollars—a type named after its designer and minted in the 1880s and 1890s.

In contrast to the tremendous movement of cartwheels during the rush, coin dealers said the market is now quiet. They believe many silver dollar holders will sit tight until a decision is made on whether minting of silver dollars will be resumed and a plan announced for the disposition of the 2,917,000 dollars still in the Treasury's vaults.

Ranger Rocket Has One More Success Chance

By RALPH DIGHTON
AP Science Writer

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Jet Propulsion Laboratory has only one more chance to land a camera-toting Ranger rocket on the moon before its contract with the U.S. space agency expires, industry sources say.

These sources, with close contacts inside the $65-million, 4,000-man complex where lunar and interplanetary probes are built, say launch-pad commitments for other projects mean only one more Ranger can be fired this year. That launching now is scheduled for June. The contract expires in December.

If Ranger 7 fails—as have all prior Rangers — these sources say:

1. Management of the government-owned laboratory may be taken out of the hands of the California Institute of Technology, which receives over $1 million annually for operating JPL for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

2. Director William H. Pickering may be removed from the post he has held 10 years.

3. A hard-headed businessman may be installed to supervise the lab's $250-million annual budget, now largely controlled by scientists.

Tension resulting from the sink-or-swim aspects of the approaching Ranger 7 shot, plus hurt and anger over NASA Administrator James E. Webb's published criticism of JPL, virtually have demoralized key personnel at the laboratory, the sources say.

One authoritative source, admittedly sympathetic with JPL's problems, believes the demoralization has hurt Ranger 7's chances for success.

"Over-anxiety can lead to mistakes," he said.

Concern over the fate of JPL became critical Friday after a letter Webb wrote to the chairmen of the Senate and House Space Committees had been made public. It blamed the failure of Ranger 6, which crashed on the moon Feb. 2 without televising close - up pictures back to earth, on faults in design and testing.

DRY CLEANED EGGS

NEW YORK (UPI)—Farmers now can dry clean dirty eggs to make sure they look "Grade A" before they ship them to market.

An English firm recently patented a machine that holds eggs cradled safely in a soft, resilient foam rubber cup while a rotating brush whisks away surface dirt. Dirty eggs cannot be "wet" washed because water removes natural sealing materials and exposes the eggs to damage and attack by bacteria, rot and mold.

Father and Son Serve Sentence In Same Prison

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (AP) —The punch line in "The Crime Skit" is a statement by a lifeterm prisoner that his son also is serving life in the same prison.

Ben Lawrence, still under 40 and doing life for kidnaping, tells of his son, under a life sentence for murder. He says, "What I hate most is wasting his life."

Father and son seldom meet in the big prison.

"The Crime Skit" has a cast of five lifers and a young man serving 25 years. The show has been on the road for six weeks, playing at high school convocations, PTA meetings and conferences of parole and juvenile officers. It is booked solid through May.

The skit takes place in a cell block. The prisoners talk about their lives before they were sent to prison. Their first petty crimes, their contempt for religion, school authorities and police, the early ages at which they dropped out of school.

Once a group laughed when a lifer, asked whether he went to school, replied, "Sure, I went to school—in the front door and right out the back door."

Demand for veneer-quality black walnut has grown so rapidly that manufacturers are using it at twice the normal rate of 17 million board feet a year.

Defense Begins Case in Trial Of Roy M. Cohn

NEW YORK (AP)—The defense begins presenting its case today in the trial of attorney Roy M. Cohn, with the second witness scheduled to be Morton Robson, former chief assistant U.S. attorney here.

Robson has been named by two government witnesses as the recipient of a $33,333 payoff in 1959 in an alleged conspiracy to keep four men from being indicted in a $5-million stock fraud.

Cohn, 37, former aide of the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis., and Murray E. Gottesman, 57, also a Manhattan lawyer, are on trial accused of taking part in that alleged conspiracy.

They also are charged with perjuring themselves before a federal grand jury which was investigating why four men escaped indictment in 1959 in the United Dye & Chemical Corp. stock fraud.

Two of the men, testifying as government witnesses have said a $58,000 payoff was made two days before the handing up of an Aug. 25, 1959, indictment which did not name the four. Cohn is said to have gotten one-third of the payoff—or $16,666—and Robson the remaining two-thirds.

The four men were subsequently indicted in 1960 and all pleaded guilty in 1962. Cohn's defense attorney, noting that three of the four have not been sentenced, says they made a deal to lie about Cohn in exchange for leniency.

"No charges have been brought against Robson, now in private practice, or against another former assistant U.S. attorney, Leonard Glass. Witnesses have said he offered to cooperate in the alleged conspiracy.

Glass was handling the government's stock fraud probe in 1959 as a subordinate to Robson. Prior to that time, Cohn also had been an assistant U.S. attorney here.

Roen swore he gave two-thirds of the alleged payoff, in cash, to a man who identified himself as Robson at the Desert Inn in Las Vegas on Aug. 23, 1959.

Under cross-examination, Roen said that on that day he had phoned Samuel S. Garfield, another confessed swindler in the United Dye case, at his home in Clare, Mich. Roen said he asked "who was coming out to collect two-thirds of the $50,000."

"He (Garfield) told me his name was Robson, that he would contact me and identify himself," Roen testified.

Roen said he drew the money from the cashier's cage at the Desert Inn, put it in an envelope and then met his caller near an elevator.

"I said, 'Are you Mr. Robson?' He said, 'Yes.' I said, 'Roy said to give you this.' I gave him the envelope."

Roen testified he had only the man's say-so that he was Robson.

Robson denied Monday night, out of court, ever having been in Las Vegas. He said he had never met Roen or received money from him and that no one had ever received money from Roen in his (Robson's) behalf.

Modern Vikings Burn Their Ship Off Tunis

TUNIS (AP)—The Long Ship, a copy of Viking vessels, ended its voyage to America in flames Monday. Six irate adventurers decided to burn it rather than turn it over to Tunisian authorities.

A pursuing boatload of Tunisian police and customs men did not interfere when Robert Marx, 29, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and his five European crewmen set fire to the 72-foot craft.

The Long Ship went down two miles off Bizerte, where Marx docked last week and tried to sell the ship after leaks and other defects made it unfit for further sea duty.

He decided to burn the ship after Tunisian officials told him he would have to pay an 80 per cent import tax to sell it.

Stassen Claims 'Middle Ground'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Presidential candidate Harold Stassen says a vote for him in the California primary June 2 actually could be a vote for the four "middle ground" possibilities not on the ballot — Henry Cabot Lodge, Richard M. Nixon, William W. Scranton and George Romney.

Stassen said Monday, "I don't feel that California voters want to support either Barry Goldwater or Nelson Rockefeller," the only candidates besides Stassen on the California presidential primary ballot.
